

Bloody Price Paid By Reds In Korea; UN Tanks Raiding

TOKYO—(AP)—Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway returned today from the Korean front confident Chinese armies will "continue to pay the bloody price they have been paying" as long as they stay in Korea.

On a two day trip the United Nations supreme commander saw a front dominated by allied planes and freely roaming U. N. tanks.

Ridgway shared with his front line troops their "complete confidence, complete self-assurance in their ability to handle anything that's thrown at them."

Enemy Losses 80,000

Friday the Reds threw artillery, mortar and high velocity shells from self-propelled guns at tank columns fanning out from Seoul.

For the third straight day a heavy tank force raided Uijongbu, 11 miles north of Seoul.

The tanks' guns added to the daily toll of Red casualties. Communists made no attacks.

"So far the only things they've succeeded in destroying are a few tens of thousands more of their own men," Ridgway said.

"And so far as I can see they're going to continue to do that—continue to pay the bloody price they've been paying."

By U. S. Eighth Army estimate the price is close to 80,000 Red casualties since their now-bogged-down spring offensive started April 22.

On his third trip to the front since he became supreme commander, Ridgway wondered "how long those (Chinese and North Korean) fellows are going to continue to put up with the empty Communist promises to throw us out of Korea and destroy the United Nations army."

Canadians Arrive

Clouds helped hide Red movements Friday. But searchlights, flares and star shells have lessened the value of night-screening, favorite time of Red movements.

Here's an example of the way U. N. forces work at night. Two bridges were a night time target on the east coast. The U. S. Destroyer Agerholm lit up the area with star shells. Fifth Air Force intruder planes acted as spotters. And the guns of the Destroyer Parks blew up the bridges.

U. N. forces got new reinforcements with the arrival of high-spirited Canadians at the southeastern port of Pusan. They were the vanguard of the Canadian 25th infantry brigade. Brigadier John M. Rockingham said they're "will-ing and anxious to do the job."

Weary Lansing Solons Race To Beat Deadline

House Slugs Through
61 New Bills

LANSING—(AP)—A bill to require registration of Communists headed the calendar for a weary house returning today from a 14-hour session that ended in the early morning hours.

Racing to meet today's deadline for passage of its own bills, the chamber slugged through 61 bills in a session which started yesterday morning.

It passed 30, defeated four, referred six and carried 21 through debate for a vote today.

Death Penalty Rejected

The Communist control bill would require Communists and members of Communist front organizations to register with the state police. It would forbid Communists a place on the ballot, and thus outlaw the party. It would forbid Communists to hold elected public office.

During perfunctory debate on the measure yesterday, sponsors pushed through an amendment to remove a provision which would have forbidden Communists to hold appointive public offices. The provision ran into constitutional difficulties.

The chamber refused to put a constitutional amendment on the ballot which would have declared the public approval of a law providing the death penalty for murder. The proposal got a 55-38 vote, 12 short of the necessary two-thirds.

Would Cost $25,000

The house last week defeated a bill to provide for capital punishment on a 42-50 vote.

Opponents to the amendment idea said a popular vote would only be a survey of public opinion, since the legislature already has the power to pass a capital punishment bill. They said the vote would cost $25,000.

Rep. T. Jefferson Hoxie (R-St. Louis) suggested that possibly the Democratic sponsors wanted to get out a big vote at the November, 1952, election when the amendment would have been voted on.

With one dissenting vote, the House passed a bill to permit sentencing of habitual criminals under a new law which reduced habitual criminal sentences.

Defeated was an attempt to permit all candidates to succeed themselves in public office to designate their incumbency on the ballot.

Armed Services Start Releasing Enlisted Reserves

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN
WASHINGTON—(AP)—The armed services will begin releasing enlisted reservists "as soon as practicable," the defense department said yesterday.

Its announced plans call for the air force to start the program almost immediately with the Marine Corps following in June, the navy in July, and the army by next September.

Priority will be given to World War II veterans.

Individuals ordered to service, but who have been granted a delay and have not reported for active duty, will not now be required to serve.

The announcement emphasized that the orders will not apply to members of unit called into active service or to the National Guard.

General Gives Views On Quick Ending Of War

Direct Blows At Red China Recommended

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Gen. MacArthur was quoted today as saying Washington never would let him bomb one major Communist supply point within Korea but near the Russian border.

A senator, asking that his name not be disclosed, said MacArthur gave that testimony yesterday but censors knocked it out of the transcript of testimony made public. The Red Korean supply town was described as about 35 miles from the Russian border.

Helped The Enemy

Most of North Korea borders on Manchuria, but in the extreme northeast the boundary line meets Russian territory.

This senator said MacArthur testified also that Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer and Maj. Gen. Emmett (Rosie) O'Donnell had insisted that the enemy distribution point in that section within Korea must be destroyed. The two men are air officers.

This version was given newsmen while MacArthur, for the second day, related to investigating senators in a closed door session his differences with the Truman administration over Far Eastern policy.

Two Senate committees—armed services and foreign relations—are jointly conducting an inquiry into these differences and President Truman's dismissal of MacArthur from his Far Eastern commands.

Quizzed By McMahon

The censored transcript sent out to newsmen disclosed that General had a brisk question-and-answer exchange with Senator McMahon (D-Conn.), a vigorous supporter of the administration's viewpoint in the great dispute.

McMahon's questions ranged into MacArthur's statement last fall that he hoped to have his boys "home by Christmas" and the general's tactics in splitting his forces for a "win-the-war drive to the Korean-Manchurian border.

As to the split forces, MacArthur said his troop dispositions had the approval of the joint chiefs of staff.

And as to the "home by Christmas" talk, the general said, "that was my hope."

Also under McMahon's questions, MacArthur said communism throughout the world is "our main enemy," rather than Soviet Russia.

Too Much Censoring

McMahon wanted to know whether the general, when he talked about communism, meant "as evidence in Red China, or the (Continued on page 6)

Allied Airmen May Get Green Light To Bombard Manchuria

TOKYO—(AP)—Allied airmen will get the green light to bomb Manchurian bases if the Chinese Reds throw the weight of their air force against United Nations ground troops in Korea.

The 14 U. N. countries fighting in Korea are reported in agreement on the need to hit back hard if the Chinese fly out of their Manchurian sanctuary in force.

But air strikes at Manchuria bases involve many touchy problems militarily.

Airfields First Target

What would be the extent of the strikes?

That would depend on whether U. N. instructions were general or specific.

General instructions might limit the attack to Red air fields. Specific orders could extend the attack to rail yards, communications centers, war plants and roads.

Allied airmen would strike first perhaps at the airfields.

They know there are many of these in Manchuria and North Korea.

U. S. B-29s blast those in Korea every few days. The Reds just as doggedly put them back in shape.

Whether the Reds could keep a sufficient number of airfields operating in Manchuria would depend on availability of personnel, fuel and other needs.

The general public knows little of the Red air potential.

The pilots, presumably, are Chinese. Some are good. They've shown improvement with practice. But American fliers haven't let them get too much air combat experience.

Reds Have Bombers

The Reds have used fighter planes almost exclusively.

They put Russian-made Yaks in the air at first. Those propeller-driven planes didn't last long against faster and superior U. N. fighters, such as the F-51 Mustang.

Tornado Strikes West Of Howell Weather On Rampage In Lower Michigan

(By The Associated Press)
The weather went on a rampage in a limited area of Southern Michigan Thursday.

Pelting rains, hail and a "baby tornado" figured in a spectacular performance.

No one was reported injured, but a vicinity west of Howell was said to have suffered between $100,000 to $150,000 damage.

Barns and trees toppled under a 20-minute blow. Livestock was injured in the collapse of two barns at the Ira Wilson & Sons Dairy Co.

Lightning struck a utility pole in Wyandotte, a Detroit suburb, and a 35,000-volt wire was tossed onto a school bus.

All 50 children in the bus left the vehicle calmly.

Declines To Discuss
Running For Senate

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Arthur H. Vandenberg, Jr., declines to discuss at this time a report that he intends to seek his late father's Senate seat.

He was asked yesterday to comment on a story in the Detroit News saying he might seek to unseat Democrat Blair Moody, appointed to the Senate vacancy by Michigan Governor G. Mennen Williams.

Vandenberg, declining comment, said that during the next few months he will be going through the papers of his father, who died April 18.

NEW YORK—(AP)—General Douglas MacArthur, whose salary and allowances come to $18,761 a year, has been offered $5,000,000 for his memoirs.

The offer was disclosed last night by Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, MacArthur's personal aide.

Whitney, however, declined to say who made the offer. Neither did he say how the deceased Far Eastern commander reacted to the offer.

Truman Almost Calls MacArthur Testimony Before Senate Untrue

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Harry Truman—tight-lipped, watchfully waiting—says he's sure the Senate hearings will prove he was right and Gen. Douglas MacArthur was wrong.

And the came pretty close yesterday to saying MacArthur told Senate investigators something that wasn't true.

The president's weekly news conference ran a poor second, in the headline count, to MacArthur's hard-punching testimony, given at the same time at the other end of town.

MacArthur said, among many other things, that the Central Intelligence agency thought there was "very little chance" last November of the Chinese Communists' entering the Korean war. (It was in November that they did enter the war.)

Asked about this, Mr. Truman said (a) The CIA didn't make any such report to him, and (2) MacArthur didn't even allow the CIA to operate in his command until recently.

The CIA is the nation's top-level intelligence agency. Mr. Truman said its director, Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, made a special flight to Tokyo and persuaded MacArthur to make use of it.

Steel For Cars Again Curtailed

Another Cut Coming July 1, Says NPA

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The government today ordered another five per cent cut in the use of steel for passenger autos and station wagons. That reduces permitted consumption to 75 per cent of the level in the first half of 1950.

The cutback is effective June 1.

On July 1, the national production authority announced, a further expected cut will reduce usage to 70 per cent for passenger cars, station wagons and light trucks.

At mid-year also, NPA said, it is anticipated the steel going into medium trucks will be limited to 100 per cent of the early-1950 level and, for heavy trucks of more than 16,000 pounds, to 120 per cent of that base period.

Today's action was taken under the steel conservation order which governs use of the metal in durable goods such as autos, refrigerators and washing machines. Only motor vehicles were affected by today's cut, however.

NPA said the tightening was necessary to provide "more steel for defense and defense-supporting activities."

Senate Passes New Compensation Law

LANSING—(AP)—Labor-backed Democratic Senators joined Republicans in hailing a new Michigan unemployment compensation law yesterday as it sped through the Senate on its way to the House.

It is the work of an all-Republican team—Senators G. Elwood Bonine of Vandalia, Creighton R. Coleman of Battle Creek and Edward Hutchinson of Fennville—who spent 18 months drafting a major revision of the law.

Commission Renamed

The measure raises unemployment compensation three dollars a week and attempts to remove the intra-agency conflicts which Bonine said resulted from a 1947 law giving the governor power to appoint the commission chairman and director.

The new bill gives that power to the commission, which is named by the governor.

Bonine said a study committee found that the present setup leads to "split authority, confusion, antagonism and strife" in the agency because the director acts independently of the commission.

The bill renames the agency the "Michigan Employment Security Commission."

The increased benefits would boost the weekly primary grant from $24 to $27 and the maximum for men with dependents from $2 to $35. No change was made in (Continued on page 6)

Russians Kill American MP

Sharp Protest Filed By U. S. In Vienna

VIENNA, Austria—(AP)—An American military policeman was slain early today by two Russian soldiers firing automatic pistols. U. S. authorities prepared a sharp protest.

The American, Cpl. Paul Gressens, died on a Vienna street from wounds in the stomach after the two Russians cut loose with 20 shots outside a night club in the central part of the city. The Russians fled to the Soviet sector.

Gressens was slain as he and his companion, Cpl. Jack Morgan, were on a patrol in the international sector of the city. They had challenged the Russians outside the Cafe Oriental on a poorly lit street.

The Russians, armed with machine pistols, turned on the Americans and began firing.

Draft Call Cut Down For June

Only 20,000 Needed For Army Duty

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The army today issued a draft call for 20,000 men in June.

This is the smallest number in any monthly call since the draft was resumed last September. Since that time, a total of 550,000 men have been drafted or placed on call for army duty.

The army got 80,000 men in each of the first three months of this year. Thereafter, the April draft was halved to 40,000 and the May quota was reduced from 60,000 to 40,000.

The army said the cutbacks were made because of the greater number of men volunteering for service and the lower-than-expected casualties in Korea.

Strike Averted At Duluth Dock

Workers Accept Pay Raise Of 11 Cents

DULUTH, Minn.—A threatened strike was averted when some 700 coal dock workers last night voted to accept an 11-cent-an-hour pay boost.

Part of the agreement also includes an additional five cents an hour, payable when and if the Wage Stabilization board allows increases beyond the currently set ten per cent.

Frank Lovshin, vice president of Duluth Local 1328, AFL International Longshoremen's association, said members approved the settlement at a meeting attended by nearly 500 workers.

Wanted John Norton To Change His Will, Says F. Lindenthal

Frank J. Lindenthal, business manager of the Escanaba Daily Press until February, 1950, today admitted that he wanted the late John P. Norton to change his will for "the benefit of the Daily Press employees."

That will, dated Jan. 5, 1950, is being contested by Norton's brothers and a nephew, who claim that Norton was mentally incompetent.

The contestants are claiming the Daily Press employees as "objects of Mr. Norton's bounty" who were not recognized in the will that left the bulk of the Norton estate to the Escanaba school district.

Says Norton Wanted It

Answering to questions in cross examination this morning, Lindenthal said he first knew of the new will in a conversation with Norton.

Linndenthal said Norton did not seem to understand whether the new will contained a provision for trusteeship and continued operation of the Press after his death.

He testified that on a Sunday morning at the Daily Press office with only himself and Norton present, Lindenthal brought the new will out of the lock box and read it in Norton's presence.

The previous Norton will made in 1944 provided for a Press operation under trusteeship, and Lindenthal said Norton told him he wanted the same provision in the new will.

Does Not Recognize Will

Shown the Norton will of Jan. 5, Lindenthal said he could not recognize Norton's signature on it and said "I don't know for sure if that's the one I saw at the Press office."

Atty. Denis McGinn, counsel in defense of the will, asked Lindenthal if he wanted Norton to change his will.

Lindenthal said he wanted Norton to "take care of the Press employees."

Judge Glenn W. Jackson repeated the question: "You did want him to change it?"

"He would have to change it, I presume," Lindenthal replied.

Lindenthal said he "doubted" if he had any influence on Norton and added, "I knew all along what Mr. Norton wanted."

Not For Himself

Lindenthal said that he did not know that he and his brother, George, were two of four trustees named in the old will for the plan to continue operation of the Daily Press following the death of Norton.

"I did not want Norton to change back to my brother and I would be trustees," Frank Lindenthal testified.

The following day Lindenthal said he went to the Norton home and talked to Norton about a plan for "some kind of a deal with the employees." Lindenthal said he was "representing" the employees.

He added that he did not talk to the employees about a plan of employee purchase because "I did not have time."

Seldom Took Naps

On a date tentatively identified as Monday, Feb. 13, the day following the Sunday Lindenthal and Norton had seen the new will at the Press office, Lindenthal said he went to the Norton home in the afternoon.

Asked if it was not Norton's habit to take a nap in the early afternoon, Lindenthal said: "I know that Mr. Norton did not take his nap at 1 o'clock," and later he said that "Mr. Norton was not in the habit of napping for any length of time," although he sometimes napped in his chair.

At the Norton home, Lindenthal testified, Norton told him Atty. James E. Frost was coming up and for Frank to stay and "you tell him what I want."

Lindenthal again said that he had not talked to the Press employees before he went to the Norton home, although he testified he was "dealing with Mr. Norton for the employees."

Was Not Dismissed

Deriving that he had suggested that Norton sell the Press to the employees for $100,000 or $200,000, Lindenthal said also that he had never approached Atty. Frost about the matter of purchase, or asked him to prepare a purchase agreement.

A meeting of some of the Press employees at the Norton home the evening of Feb. 17, 1950, was one "at which I was supposed to be," Lindenthal said.

Lindenthal said Norton told him the next day there "was trouble" and "some of the fellows are mad at you."

Asked in cross-examination if he had been discharged the following day by Norton, Lindenthal said he "tried to find out" from Mr. Norton about "the trouble" but Mr. Norton "didn't know."

Asked if Norton had told him that he was discharged and James G. Ward was to become Press manager, Lindenthal said "No, he did not say that."

Just "Suggested" Contract

Lindenthal said that when he told Norton he, Lindenthal, was willing to leave the Daily Press, Norton replied, "Don't leave me."

from the Escanaba Daily Press in 1949 and later admitted when evidence was produced that he had received $7,416.66.

"I wouldn't say that was all," Lindenthal added, mentioning that it might have been possible he also received a "bonus" of $1,000 or $1,500.

Asked if Escanaba Daily Press checks had paid for improvements to a house owned by Frank Lindenthal, Lindenthal said "No, I should say, I don't think so."

Three times the question was put to him on what additional money Lindenthal was entitled to receive in earnings in 1949, and each time Lindenthal mentioned possible reasons for additional money he might have received.

Cite Bank Deposits

In answer to the question put to him by Judge Jackson, Lindenthal said some of the money he received might have been to pay for his expenses at Rochester while he was there with the Nortons. He added that he had not been reimbursed for all of these expenses, and later said if his attorney so advised he might make a claim against the John Norton estate for reimbursement.

Lindenthal denied that he had taken Daily Press checks and deposited them to his account. He could not recall where the moneys had come from that had been deposited to his account and that of his brother, George, at the First National Bank.

Asked if the moneys had come from Mr. Norton or the Daily Press, Lindenthal said "I couldn't say."

Deposit slips showing $4,142.26 deposited to Lindenthal's account in a period of two months and seven days in early 1949 were presented and Lindenthal again said he could "not recall if any came from the Press or Mr. Norton."

Press Paid the Bills

Judge Jackson instructed the jury to disregard the testimony concerning the deposits until and if they are connected by evidence or testimony with Mr. Norton or the Daily Press.

Questioned concerning bills for repairs and other items paid for by Daily Press checks, Lindenthal said he could explain an item of $53.10 for work on windows at the house owned by Lindenthal at 331 South Ninth street.

Lindenthal said Mr. Norton "stayed at my home on several occasions," that Mr. Norton suggested the new window screen frames and the cost "was billed to the Press at Mr. Norton's request."

Other items concerning roofing for a house owned by Lindenthal, a pump, and a toilet, were all handled by Lindenthal as directed by Mr. Norton, Lindenthal testified.

Signature Not Recognized

Asked to identify the signature of John P. Norton on 94 checks produced in evidence by counsel in defense of the Norton will, Lindenthal failed to recognize any of them as the signature of Norton.

Lindenthal said he could not identify Norton's signature on checks dated over a period before and after Norton signed his will on Jan. 5, 1950. He also said he could not recognize Norton's signature on the will itself.

Questions concerning automobiles supplied to Lindenthal while he was employed at the Daily Press brought the reply that Lindenthal had driven a number of cars. He could not remember how many. Asked if the autos were owned by the Press and the Press paid expenses on them, Lindenthal replied "I imagine it was."

City Declines To Pay Cost Of New Facilities At Jacobsen Factory

The Escanaba city council last night rejected an appeal from the Jacobsen Manufacturing company for enlargement of space and installation of new facilities at city expense in the company's building on First avenue north, which is owned by the City of Escanaba.

The council authorized the company to make improvements on the building at the company's expense, subject to approval of the city manager, but specified in the resolution that none of the cost of new installations shall be at the city's expense.

In a letter from Ray LaPorte, plant manager, the Jacobsen Manufacturing company pointed out that in March, 1946 the company employed 34 people at a total weekly payroll of about $830 a week. The firm now employs between 80 and 85 persons and has a payroll of approximately $3200 a week, LaPorte informed the council.

Rental of $125 a Month

More warehouse facilities and enlargement of rest room facilities are required, the council was told. Rest room improvements must be made by July 1, LaPorte reported.

City Manager A. V. Aronson informed the council that under the terms of the Jacobsen's lease with the city the manufacturing company pays a rental of $125 per month. Cost of improvements to the exterior of the building must be borne by the city but improvements and maintenance of the interior of the building are responsibilities of the manufacturing company.

The council approved the purchase of property west of the Northwest Fruit company from the Chicago and North Western railway for $2750 as a site for the new propane gas plant. The property is 160 feet by 250 feet. A proposal by the railroad that the city pay the cost of installing a derrick on a railroad spur there at a cost of about $150 was rejected by the council.

The appointment of a new member to the library board to succeed the late Harold P. Lindsay was tabled to the first meeting in June. The Trades and Labor Council was asked to submit the names of three labor men from which to make the appointment.

A contract with the Reiss Coal company for providing coal to the city gas plant at a cost of $13 a ton was approved by the council.

Water Project Contract OK'd

Council Approves Consoer Agreement

The Escanaba council last night approved completion of a contract with Consoer, Townsend and Associates of Chicago for engineering services and general supervision of construction of the new water filtration plant.

The original proposal of Consoer and Townsend for engineering services on the project was in four phases of which two have been completed. The first was for preliminary services, estimates, etc., at a cost of $1,000. The second was for drawing plans and specifications for the project at a fee of 3 1/2% of the total cost, later reduced to 3 1/4%. These phases of the work have already been performed by the engineering company.

The third phase provides for detailed working drawings and general supervision of the construction and the fourth phase provides for the appointment of a resident engineer to closely supervise the project in every step of construction. The engineering company's fee for the third phase of the project is 1 1/4% of the total cost of the project and the fourth phase will cost the city an estimated $7,500. Actual salary of the engineer on the job, plus 25% to cover insurance, travel expenses, etc., is provided in the contract. It is estimated that this cost will not exceed $500 for about 15 months of construction.

Set May 17 for public hearing on the new city budget.

Heard a request from the Trades and Labor Council that local labor be assigned to work on the water and gas plant projects. City Manager Aronson reported that this matter has already been cleared with the general contractor.

The actual construction of the water filtration plant is expected to start this month by the Pearson Construction company of Benton Harbor. Total cost including extension of water mains in North Escanaba is about $900,000.

City Planning Debated Again

Issue Is Argued At Council Meeting

The long standing controversy regarding the city planning commission flared again last night at the meeting of the Escanaba city council.

The planning commission issue was touched off by Tom Goedert and James Doran, of the Escanaba Trades and Labor Council, who asked that the council strike from the budget for the next fiscal year the appropriation for the operation of the planning commission. Goedert said that the planning commission's authority exceeds that of the council itself.

Doran argued that $19,000 has been expended in the functions of the planning commission in the last several years but "there is nothing to show for it." He proposed that a zoning board be appointed on a "voluntary basis."

Councilman Guy Knutson pointed out that the present planning commission is on a "voluntary basis" and that the members devote many hours of their time without compensation from the city.

Letter from Krieger

City Manager Aronson declared that the budget appropriations for the planning commission are for services of city employees and that none of the appropriation is for compensation of the commission members. He explained that a third of the salary of Robert Clayton, planning official, and half of the salary of a city draftsman is charged to the planning budget. This money would not be saved by the city even if the planning commission were abandoned, Aronson said.

The controversy was sharpened by a letter from Elmer Krieger, of Hubertus, Wisconsin, the city's planning consultant, who took issue with a recent opinion of City Attorney Denis McGinn on the planning commission situation.

Krieger's letter in part follows: "I cannot understand why anyone would raise the question as to the authority of the city to zoning. The council does the zoning. The zoning ordinance is a legislative act and can be adopted only by the council."

"The city attorney, according to the Press quote, evidently has a misunderstanding of the status of planning in Escanaba. He said, 'It is my understanding that a master map of the city has already been adopted by the planning commission and that a complete master plan, including a zoning plan, has not as yet been adopted. It is my further understanding that the planning commission is presently engaged in the preparation of the complete master plan.'"

"Council Has Authority"

"The master plan has already been adopted by the planning commission in accord with the statutes. The master plan is prepared and adopted by the planning commission for use of the commission in making individual recommendations to the city council relating to the physical development of the city. The use of land is regulated by the zoning ordinance which can only be adopted by the city council."

"However, before the city council adopts the zoning ordinance or adopts an amendment to it, or revises the entire ordinance, it should have the recommendation in each instance of the plan commission."

"The procedure helps and safeguards the city council in its actions on matters affecting the city's physical plan. The city council is not forced to follow the plan commission's recommendations; the statute merely provides that the council shall have the plan commission's recommendations before it takes legislative action."

Fontana Gives Views On Airline Services

MENOMINEE, Mich.— Direct, one-carrier airline service between Michigan's two peninsulas has been proven economically sound, through Nationwide Airlines operations, but the economic soundness of airline service between Upper and Lower Michigan by way of Milwaukee or Chicago is questionable, Mario Fontana, Iron Mountain, vice-chairman of the Michigan Board of Aeronautics, reported today.

Indicative of the proven economic soundness of one operation and the questionable soundness of the other, Fontana pointed out that in 1950, the government paid Wisconsin Central Airlines $107 in subsidy (mail pay) for each passenger the airline carried out of the U. P. Nationwide broke about even in 1950 on its intra-state operation between the two peninsulas, without any subsidy and depending entirely on passenger fares for its income.

Fontana's statement was made in a letter addressed to the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) at Washington as a clarification of the position of the U. P. Air Transportation Committee on the Wisconsin Central and Nationwide Airlines cases now pending before the CAB. The letter was released for publication by Robert G. Murphy, Menominee, chairman of the U. P. committee, who said it accurately reflected the committee's attitude on U. P. air transportation. Fontana represented the U. P. committee at the CAB hearing in January on the Wisconsin Central application for renewal of its present certificate.

Fears Loss Of All Service

"Lest my position be misinterpreted in my questioning the economic soundness of air transportation to the Upper Peninsula, north of Green Bay," Fontana wrote the CAB, "let me state clearly that my position stems from concern over the U. P. losing all certified airline service. The wrong route pattern now may result in such high 'break-even' subsidy (mail pay) that the CAB would be forced to order its termination."

"This concern isn't new nor recently acquired. It dates back to 1949 when I joined with other members of the U. P. Air Transportation Committee at a meeting in Houghton on Sept. 20, 1949, in petitioning CAB to revoke the certificate of Wisconsin Central in the five U. P. cities now served by Wisconsin Central and give the U. P. route to Nationwide. At that time, Wisconsin Central, although it had been certified two years earlier, had not yet started service to the U. P."

"We felt then that it was more important to us in the U. P. to have direct, one-carrier service to lower Michigan than to have direct airline service to Milwaukee and Chicago. Nothing has happened since Wisconsin Central did begin service to the U. P. on Dec. 1, 1949 to warrant our changing this position."

Million In Airports

"We feel direct inter-peninsula service is economically sound; we fear airline service between the peninsulas via Milwaukee or Chicago would not be economically sound. And, if the latter arrangement necessitated, as we believe it must, excessive subsidies, the CAB would be justified in terminating certified airline service to the U. P. Then, we would be stuck with $1,000,000 invested in airport development and no airline service."

In his letter to the CAB, Fontana told the board that "while the two cases are separate entities and will probably be treated as such, it is the contention of the writer that they are indirectly related and that the CAB has, by its own action, implied their interrelationship. The Wisconsin-Michigan case, which pertains to direct, one-carrier certified air transportation service between Michigan's two peninsulas, has been completed before CAB. Yet, the board has deferred decision pending disposal of the Wisconsin Central case, pertaining to renewal of the certificate on Route 86. The U. P. portion of that route includes all of the U. P. cities on the proposed certified route in the Wisconsin-Michigan (Nationwide) case."

"It is my considered opinion," Fontana's letter to CAB continues, "that members of the Michigan delegation who went to Washington in January to testify in the Wisconsin Central renewal case were accorded treatment that was unwarranted. Counsel for Wisconsin Central Airlines and for the State of Wisconsin objected, with considerable success, to our testimony regarding direct air transportation between Michigan's two peninsulas. When we endeavored to explain the reason for and the importance to us of this direct,

Lutherans Are Raising Funds

To Assist Needy Here And Abroad

Nine Lutheran churches of Delta county are joining with 10,000 other Lutheran congregations throughout the United States in supporting Lutheran World Action again this year by giving an offering for spiritual and material aid in this country and overseas. Some of them are using Sunday, May 6, for this purpose as that day has been named Lutheran World Action Sunday. Others will observe the day later in the month.

These nine congregations include Salem, Bark River; Bethany, Escanaba; Immanuel, Escanaba; Calvary, Rapid River; Bethany, Perkins; Bethany, Isabella; First Lutheran, Gladstone; Bethel, Stonington; and Trinity, Stonington.

10,000 Churches

They are part of more than 10,000 affiliated with the eight Lutheran bodies participating in the National Lutheran Council, the agency which supervises the gathering and distribution of Lutheran World Action funds. The council's participating bodies are the United Lutheran church in America, the Evangelical Lutheran church, the American Lutheran church, the Augustana Lutheran church, the Lutheran Free church, the Finnish Suomi Synod, the United Evangelical Lutheran church, and the Danish Evangelical Lutheran church.

The Lutheran World Action goal for 1951 is $3,300,000, of which the above congregations are asked to give some over $3,000, it is reported. Of the total goal, $400,000 has been earmarked for spiritual service to Lutheran men and women in the armed forces.

$650,000 for Missions

Another $650,000 has been allocated for the support of orphaned missions which were cut off from direction.

$107 Per Passenger

2—Direct, one-carrier air service to Milwaukee, Wis., and Chicago, Ill., is desirable but its economic soundness is questionable. In 1950, Wisconsin Central carried an average of 3.2 passengers per day out of the five major cities in the U. P., necessitating a government (mail pay) subsidy of $107 per passenger.

4—We, in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, are cognizant of the position of the CAB and the government on excessive subsidies which are presently under official scrutiny and will not be tolerated. We are also cognizant of the fact that the Upper Peninsula air traffic potential, at this time, does not warrant certification of two airlines because of the subsequent high subsidy.

5—It is our considered judgment that the best answer to the air transportation problem, as it affects the U. P., is for direct one-carrier service between the Upper and Lower Peninsulas of Michigan, with a connection with Wisconsin Central at Green Bay, Wis., or Menominee, Mich. This view is shared in official action taken by the Michigan state legislature, the Michigan Department of Aeronautics, the office of the governor of Michigan, and by city councils and other official bodies both in the Upper and Lower Peninsulas."

Proksch Is Low Bidder On New Garden School

Citizens Discuss Building Monday

A. H. Proksch of Iron River submitted the lowest bid of $175,033 for the construction of the Catherine Bonifas elementary school in the village of Garden.

Other bids, opened at a meeting of the Garden board of education last night, were: Herman Gundlach, Houghton, $183,589; Klippen-Holm, Duluth, $186,474; and Champion, Inc., Iron Mountain, $195,895. All figures are exclusive of architects' fees.

The bids were taken under advisement by the Garden school board. A meeting of all citizens of the community will be held in Garden at 8 Monday night to discuss the building program.

The late Mrs. Catherine Bonifas bequeathed $150,000 to the state board of education for the building of a modern grade school in Garden, where she spent the early years of her life. In view of the fact that the bids were in excess of $150,000, the problem of financing the balance will be discussed at the public meeting Monday night.

Attending the Garden board meeting were: John C. Goodall, John E. Starrett and Richard Dean, representatives of Goodall, Perkins & Will, Chicago architects; Harry Allen, supervising engineer, state board of education; and John A. Lemmer, Escanaba.

Volunteer Firemen Meet Regularly At Bark River

BARK RIVER—The Bark River township volunteer fire department members are holding regular meetings and workouts the first and third Thursday of the month.

The men are learning the operation of the new fire fighting equipment and the technique of modern fire fighting. Herman Palmgren is fire chief and Philip Norman, assistant. Fifteen men report regularly for the meetings.

The department recently purchased and installed a siren that can be heard for miles on top of the fire hall.

A benefit dance has been planned for Saturday evening to raise funds for equipment which may be needed from time to time.

10 Are Called For Induction

Group Will Report Here On May 17

The local draft board this morning announced the names of 10 Delta county registrants and one transfer from another board called for induction on May 17 at the Escanaba induction center, 1215 Ludington street.

The list follows:

Marvin Ray Schram, Gladstone; Harold Edson Hoy, Fayette; Clyde Benjamin Wright, Cornell; Milton Raymond Demerise, Escanaba; Maurice Charles Miller, Escanaba; (notice mailed to Milwaukee); Richard Willard Schrader, Escanaba; Marvin LeRoy Cartwright, Escanaba; Vernie Arthur Wadew, Rock; Clarence Walter Hall, Tyre, Mich., Rte. 1; Anthony Frank Stropich, Escanaba, (notice also mailed to last known addresses in New York and Texas).

Robert Clyde Dimock, Escanaba, is the transfer registrant from Milwaukee called for induction with the local group.

Whitehall became the official residence of English rulers in 1697 giving way to Buckingham Palace in 1837. The British court is called the Court of St. James after a religious establishment which once occupied the site.

U. S. Demand For Embargo On War Supplies To China Logical

THE demand of the United States for a world-wide embargo against Red China on all strategic war materials, presented to a United Nations committee, is based upon good logic and plain common sense.

The United Nations has branded Red China as an aggressor in Korea and UN member nations are contributing manpower and war materials to withstand the Chinese and North Korean aggression. And yet some of the UN members, particularly Britain and France, still want to do business in the same old way with Red China.

It was recently disclosed that since the outbreak of the Korean war, Britain has sold large quantities of raw rubber not only to Red China but to Soviet Russia as well.

It is plain that any materials that can be used for war purposes that is sold to Red China or Soviet Russia by United Nations members will jeopardize the lives of the troops fighting Red China and Korean Communists in Korea. This traffic should cease promptly in fairness to our soldiers in Korea.

Street Cleaning Is Essential, Too

THE dirt, sand and grime on Ludington street, part of the winter's accumulation, have brought forth some howls of protests from businessmen and shoppers but the prospects for quick relief are not bright.

The city officials have explained that the city's mechanized street sweeper is out of order and that repair parts have been delayed. The cost of doing the job by hand labor is rather high and the prospective deficit of $25,000 to $50,000 for this fiscal year has discouraged the assignment of a city street crew to the task.

Nevertheless, this is cleanup time and unless the city leads the way in tidiness and good "housecleaning" practices, it can hardly exhort its citizens to clear away the winter's accumulation of debris around their own homes.

Much of the mud and dirt on Ludington street was removed earlier but some of it remains to bring forth howls of protests from the citizenry. Even if it does cost more to clean up the streets with hand labor than with the mechanized equipment, the job should be done. It is an essential chore of tidiness that should not be neglected. A tidy housewife would not skip her cleaning chores simply because her vacuum cleaner broke down. She would grab a broom and go to work.

Shipments Of Ore Are Very Heavy

THE ore shipment report for the month of April from the Chicago and North Western docks in Escanaba confirms pre-season predictions that 1951 will be an extremely busy season for the ore handlers.

Tonnage shipped from Escanaba last month was 625,000 tons, or nearly two and a half times greater than in April, 1950, when 264,000 tons moved over the local docks. It is true, of course, that the navigation season opened earlier this year than in 1950, but the activity per shipping day is also much higher this year.

The receipts of iron ore from the mines to the Escanaba ore yards last month totaled 71,000 tons, the largest April business in the history of the local docks.

The shipments of ore from the Gogebic range is particularly satisfying. Ore from this range has been moved across Lake Superior docks in past years but some shipments from that area began last season.

About four times as much Gogebic range ore is expected here this year as was received in 1950, or a total of about 1,500,000 tons for the season.

All in all, the ore situation looks exceptionally bright.

Smoking In Bed Is A Real Luxury

SOMEONE once said that smoking in bed is a luxury which should be pursued only by people who can afford to build new homes every so often.

It could be added that it is also a good practice for those who are eager to see what the next world is like as soon as possible. It has been the cause not only of thousands of home fires, but of disasters in hotels which have resulted in a ghastly toll of death and injury.

Moreover, this source of fire is typical of the fact that the great majority of fires are completely unnecessary. Certainly, even the chain-smoker can put out his final cigarette before he turns in for the night. And even the most indolent householder can make his home safe from fire in many other ways without over straining his muscles. It doesn't take much effort to see that flammable junk is properly disposed of, rather than being stored in basements and closets where it is a constant invitation to fire. It's no great task to periodically check up on exposed electric cords and replace those which are frayed.

And it's easy to call the repair shop and have someone who knows his business make a routine inspection of furnaces and other heating appliances before they are subjected to the heavy cold-weather load.

If these things alone are done, the risk of fire in most homes will be tremendously reduced. And the other major causes of fire are equally simple to detect and correct. No one can do it for you. It's your job—just as it's your life and your property that's at stake.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Nine months before the Korean war General MacArthur predicted that the Chinese Communists could be "easily defeated in any major conflict" and remarked that Chiang Kai-shek "knew nothing about the art of warfare."

These amazing statements, exactly the opposite of what MacArthur professes to believe, are contained in a secret report to President Truman, submitted by Congressman Charles Deane of North Carolina in September 1949. Deane was head of a congressional delegation which called on MacArthur in Tokyo to get his views.

Deane reported MacArthur as believing that the "Chinese Reds were greatly overrated and could be easily defeated in any major conflict." Also that the "Soviets were powerless to conduct a full-scale war on the China mainland."

But the most remarkable statement was MacArthur's reference to invasion of the Chinese mainland.

QUOTES MACARTHUR

Deane quoted MacArthur directly as saying: "I consider Chiang a highly intelligent leader. But he knows nothing about the art of war. He is surrounded by corrupt officials and generals. His troops are very ineffective and poorly equipped."

As another example of MacArthur as a military prophet, Deane reported to the president: "MacArthur said he did not think the North Koreans would overrun the South Koreans, but that the United States would have to support South Korea in the event of trouble."

The North Carolina congressman also reported that it was MacArthur's view that Russia had nothing to gain by taking over South Korea. And that Russia was most interested in Asia in order to gain access to a warm-water port on the Indian ocean.

"Russia has shifted from its generation-old policy of seeking ports on the Mediterranean to a new aim of driving for a warm-water port on the Indian ocean," Deane explained MacArthur's reasoning.

Note: In a separate memo attached to Deane's secret report to the president, the North Carolinian also complained about Maj. Gen. Charles Willoughby, MacArthur's heel-clicking intelligence chief who has now asked to be retired. At a military briefing, Deane reported, Willoughby used a full colonel as a messenger boy to juggle the charts and snapped his fingers every time he wanted the colonel to remove a chart. Deane also complained that Willoughby always seemed to be on the tennis court when the congressional delegation was looking for him.

INTERESTING QUOTATION

President Truman was all set to answer General MacArthur with his own words at a press conference called just after the general was fired.

Mr. Truman had an interesting quotation from MacArthur neatly typed out on a piece of paper and tucked inside his coat pocket when the press conference started, and he planned to read it if newsmen asked him about the man he had just fired. But at the last minute the president changed his mind.

However, here is MacArthur's own statement about the supremacy of the president, which the president almost read, and which was made by MacArthur in 1932: "The national strategy of any war—that is, the selection of national objectives and the determination of the general means and methods to be applied in attaining them, as well as the development of the broad policies applicable to the prosecution of the war—are decisions that must be made by the head of state. . . . Coordinating army and navy effort could not be delegated by the commander-in-chief to any subordinate authority. Any such attempt would not constitute delegation but rather abdication."

That's what MacArthur said—in 1932.

MILITARY VINDICATION

Whether you are for General MacArthur or not, it is almost certain that from a strictly military long-range point of view he will win the present argument. No matter how you slice your bread in Korea, MacArthur will probably end up with the better side. Here is the reason why: Unless the U. N. wins an outstanding and easy victory, which isn't likely, there are three possible military alternatives:

1. We will have to withdraw from Korea altogether. This will be considered a victory for MacArthur, since his proponents will argue that if we had bombed Manchurian bases we would not have had to withdraw.

2. There will be a stalemate. In this case MacArthur will also be considered right in the eyes of many, who will argue that if we had bombed Chinese bases and used Chiang Kai-shek's troops, there would have been no stalemate.

3. We will bomb Chinese bases. U. N. leaders have come part way around toward doing this if, and it's an important if, Red Chinese start a real air offensive. In this case again, MacArthur will be considered the winner of the argument.

Washington—Hugh L. Cooper, president of the American - Russian Chamber of Commerce, predicted that Soviet Russia would buy at least $3,000,000,000 worth of goods a year "if the outside world would consider this trade opportunity on sound economic principles."

Hollywood—Clara Bow, ill in Glendale sanitarium, today, for the second time this year, was replaced by a film newcomer in a picture in which she was to star. Petite Peggy Shannon, red headed like Clara, was chosen to carry on—just as Sylvia Sidney, another recruit from the stage, was asked to carry on when Clara became ill during the Daisy De Boe trial.

One great trouble with a past is that it's often an ever-present difficulty.

"MILLIONS FOR DEFENSE but not one cent for tribute!" That was the answer the Barbary pirates got from the weak and fledgling United States when they demanded tribute for allowing our ships to go through the Mediterranean. Stephen Decatur, whose leadership of the expedition which resulted in the burning of the Philadelphia, during the Tripolitan War, highlighted a brilliant career.

150 Years Ago Decatur's Valor Broke Power Of International Blackmailers

By HERBERT HOLLANDER

This week marks the 150th anniversary of the outbreak of the Tripolitan war, which began this country's unbroken record of resistance to all forms of international blackmail.

"Millions for defense but not one cent for tribute!"

That was the answer the weak and fledgling United States gave to the Barbary pirates who had been demanding and getting blackmail tribute for centuries to permit shipping to go through the Mediterranean unmolested.

It has a significant ring in the world situation of today, when a new now powerful America is spending not millions but billions as its answer to aggression and intimidation from another quarter.

Although it had barely started upon its course as a nation, the United States of 1801 fought the Tripolitan war to break up an ancient piratical racket by the Barbary states and the whole country rallied behind the clarion call of "millions for defense but not one cent for tribute."

Decatur Was Hero

The hero of the war was Stephen Decatur, a 25-year old naval officer whose feat of burning the U.S.S. Philadelphia in the harbor of Tripoli was declared by England's Admiral Horatio Nelson to have been "the most daring act of the age."

It is noteworthy that Decatur's home in Washington, which he built in 1819 with prize money won in the war, is occupied by Mrs. Truxton Beale, whose late husband was a descendant of Commodore Truxton, a Decatur colleague. Moreover, a portion of the home recently has been converted into a naval museum, open to the public.

It was from this beautiful home designed by Benjamin H. Latrobe, one of the early architects of the U. S. Capitol, situated on Lafayette Square a stone's throw from the White House, that Decatur went to his untimely death in 1820 on the Bladensburg duelling grounds at the hands of Commodore Barron.

Decatur's career was brilliant throughout, but it is by his great exploit against the pirates that he is chiefly remembered.

For centuries it had been the custom to make presents of goods and money to the fierce rovers of Northern Africa, and when those gifts were not promptly forthcoming the swift galleys of the corsairs committed every act of outright piracy in the buccannering calendar. America was determined to stop the practice and was willing to stake its standing in the eyes of the world on the staunchness of its small fleet and the bravery of its crews.

In 1803 the third squadron sent out by the United States gathered at Gibraltar with the pennant of Commodore Edward Preble flying in the lead and with young Lieutenant Stephen Decatur aboard one of the vessels.

Preble assigned two vessels, the Philadelphia and the Vixen, to the hazardous task of blockading Tripoli. The difficulty of the situation became acute when the Vixen made off in search of a Tripolitan cruiser and the Philadelphia, a deep-draught frigate, was assigned the job of in-shore chasing.

The Philadelphia had been driven to the eastward under a high wind, and as she was running down to her station again a vessel was seen inshore standing for Tripoli.

Ship Struck Keel

Before decisive action with the enemy vessel could be accomplished, the Philadelphia struck a reef. This catastrophe, which temporarily left the man-of-war high and dry, brought out swarms of Tripolitans. Following a brave stand, Capt. Bainbridge, after consulting his officers, hauled down his flag. Everything was done to insure the final loss of the ship, but this end was not gained and within a week the rovers had the fine vessel afloat and ready for action against its late masters. Officers and crew were jailed in "a foul Tripolitan den."

Preble determined upon vigorous action and, making good a promise given young Decatur, gave him leadership of the perilous expedition he projected. Preble first had thought that re-capture of the Philadelphia would be possible, but finally concluded that her destruction was the only course.

Arriving before Tripoli just as bad weather was setting in, Decatur sent out a boat with pilot and Midshipman Charles Morris to reconnoitre. Their report was unfavorable, and the decision was against going in. The wind, getting constantly worse, blew a gale and drove the adventurers to the eastward. Morris wrote in his account of the situation of the Intrepid's crew:

"The commander, three lieutenants, and the surgeon occupied the very small cabin. Six midshipmen and the pilot had a platform laid on the water casks, whose surface they covered when they lay down for sleep, and at so small a distance below deck that their heads would reach it when seated on the platform. The marines had corresponding accommodations on the opposite side, and the sailors had only the surface of the casks in the hold. To these inconveniences were added the want of any room on the deck for exercise and the attacks of innumerable vermin which our predecessors, the slaves, had left behind. The provisions proved to be decayed and offensive."

Finally, however, the little fleet again stood before Tripoli, and this time the grim drama was not to be interrupted. With approximately 84 men aboard, the Intrepid, commanded by Stephen Decatur, drifted into the silent harbor.

The Philadelphia lay with her forty guns all loaded and double-shotted and well manned. This was the enemy which the little ketch of sixty tons and four small guns faced—and in addition there were guns of the pasha's castle as well as other batteries. Furthermore, there were floating defenses close by consisting of several cruisers and galleys.

Was Tense Situation

It was a tense moment, and had suspicion been directed against the Intrepid she and every man aboard would have been destroyed.

All the men on the ketch were kept concealed except a few in native dress and owing to the smooth Tripolitanese of the Sicilian pilot, no suspicion was excited aboard the Philadelphia. The watch hailed, and the pilot of the Intrepid replied that she had lost anchor in the gale and would like to make fast to the Philadelphia for the night. This was agreed to, but after the ketch was warped alongside the Philadelphia's crew scented danger and there came the blood-curdling cry:

"Americans! Americans!"

One by one the decks were cleared in fierce fighting. Then minutes after the boarding party swung over the rails Decatur was in full possession of the ship.

Especially assigned parties set fire to vulnerable points. With the ship a blazing mass which lighted the entire harbor, the brave little crew of Americans made for the Intrepid. Then came the struggle to escape, with the town awakened, the Tripolitanese batteries coming into action, and the tiny ketch the object of every missile.

Morris, who later was to become a commodore who added luster to our great naval tradition, wrote a stirring account of the last great moments in the Philadelphia's destruction and the escape of the Americans.

"Up to this time," he says, "the ships and batteries of the enemy had remained silent, but they were now prepared to act; and when the crew of the ketch gave three cheers in exaltation of their success, they received the return of a general discharge from the enemy. The confusion of the moment probably prevented much care in their direction, and though under fire of nearly one hundred pieces for half an hour, the only shot which struck the ketch was one through the topgallant sail."

"We were in greater danger from the Philadelphia, whose broadsides commanded the passage by which we were retreating, and whose guns were loaded, and discharged as they became heated. We escaped these also, and while urging the ketch onward with sweeps, the crew were commenting upon the beauty of the spray thrown up by the shot between us and the brilliant light of the ship, rather than calculating any danger that might be apprehended from the contact. The appearance of the ship was, indeed, magnificent. The flames in the interior illuminated her ports, and, ascending her rigging and masts, formed columns of fire which, meeting the tops, were reflected into beautiful capitals; whilst the occasional discharge from her guns gave an idea of some directing spirit within her."

"The walls of the city and its batteries, and the masts and rigging of cruisers at anchor, brilliantly illuminated and animated by the discharge of artillery, formed worthy adjuncts and an appropriate background to the picture. Fanned by a light breeze our exertions soon carried us beyond the range of their shot, and at the entrance of the harbor we met the boats of the Siren, which had been intended to cooperate with us, and whose crew rejoiced at our success whilst they grieved at not having been able to partake in it. The success of this enterprise added much to the reputation of the Navy, both at home and abroad. Great credit was given, and was justly due, to Commodore Preble, who directed and first designed it, and to Lieutenant Decatur, who volunteered to execute it, and to whose coolness, self-possession, resources, and intrepidity its success was, in an eminent degree, due."

Decatur's feat was universally acclaimed and drew world-wide tributes. It served to focus attention upon the independence of thought and action of the youthful American nation in fighting a war that Europe had side-stepped for centuries.

Shortly after the epic firing of the Philadelphia, Commodore Preble recommended that Decatur be promoted. At 25 he became the youngest captain ever appointed in the United States Navy.

I never thought I would live to see the day that Senator Taft would try to tell General Eisenhower how to win a war. Maybe he (Taft) would rather be President than right.—Sen. Robert Kerr (D., Okla.).

Good Evening ...

By CLINT DUNATHAN

THOSE SPRING FIRES—From press and radio on these spring days come pleas voiced by state and federal foresters to the public. "Be careful with fire," they ask.

There is a danger in spring forest and grass fires that is sometimes overlooked by those who start them. The danger may seem insignificant, yet it is real nevertheless.

The grass fire of a few acres on the back forty, the marsh that is swept by flame, the brush that burns along the roadside—what loss is there in this?

The loss is in fertility of the soil, in the nests of friendly birds where eggs are hatching; in young trees that have taken years to get a start, and in the possibility of fires that may get out of control and destroy farm buildings, camps, and summer homes.

SAVING THE SOIL—Farmers of Delta county are now beginning a program of cooperation in conserving the soil.

Last year a soil conservation district was organized and this year the program will get under way. Contour plowing, sodding of slopes, drainage, the prevention of wind and water erosion—all of these and more are objectives in the program.

But all too often the individual farmer in the county or the backyard gardener in town overlooks a most important soil fertility measure, the need to rebuild the soil by turning under everything from grass clippings to what agriculturists call a "green manure" crop.

COUNTING THE LOSS—It takes nature many centuries to restore a soil depleted by ravaging fire.

Foresters and oldtimers among woodsmen now agree that forest fires did more damage to Northern Michigan soil than was caused by slashing away of trees by the lumberman's axe.

The wide expanse of sandy plains in the Upper Peninsula, now slowly coming back into brush, mark areas where fires burned off the top soil, leaving nothing in which seeds could find lodging or food for growth.

In the slow process of restoration the soil first must put on a coating of grasses. Often this coating actually retards the development of trees, for seeds that do find a toe-hold are soon burned out when fires race across the dry grass in spring or summer.

The U. S. Forest Service has planted thousands of acres of plains land to seedling trees. These shade the ground, hold moisture, halt fires, and advance nature's process of restoration by a hundred years.

THE GARDENER'S FRIEND—The compost pile is the gardener's friend, and the compost will do more for his garden than all the commercial fertilizer in the nation.

Compost, if you are a non-gardener, is composed of vegetable matter — the stalks of last year's vegetation, leaves raked from the lawn, and even twigs and kitchen refuse.

This material is placed in a pile and allowed to decompose under layers of soil. From this pile the gardener takes rich humus to add to the soil in his garden, enriching it in a process that unaided nature duplicates very slowly.

Sometimes animal manure and commercial fertilizer is added to the compost, although those who believe in "natural" soil culture turn up their noses at "artificial" fertilizers.

PUTTING IT BACK — To perpetuate fertility of the soil it is necessary to put back into it the equal of that which has been removed.

Farmers who practice crop rotation, plowing under of green crops, the use of barnyard manure, the control of erosion are doing just that on a big scale. The little gardener with his compost pile not only maintains but even increases fertility despite intensive cropping.

And this brings up back to our starting point: That grass and brush and forest fires destroy a valuable source of soil fertility. Wispy ashes, blown in the wind, add nothing to the soil. But leaves and grass and twigs that fall to the ground decompose and become that rich layer of topsoil that means food riches for a nation and dollars in pocket to future Americans.

America Has Lost Morale

Spiritual Revival Needed, Says Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass.—Unless the leaders of our country can rejuvenate the common spiritual values which give meaning and purpose to the New World, America is licked as the leader of free nations.

I get lots of letters these days asking me, "What can a man believe, anyway?" They come from business managers and production line workers alike. One man is as confused as the next. One doesn't like labor unions. Another doesn't like government bureaucracy. The next doesn't want price fixing. Still another doesn't want the United States fighting wars in Korea. But all have a good word to say for General MacArthur.

MacArthur reports that Japanese intellectuals have been shocked by the inability of even our military officers to tell the Japanese what we believe in as a nation and what our long-term objectives are. We don't want the tyrannies of Hitler or Mussolini or Stalin. We don't want British Socialism. We don't want Communism; but, for the moment, we want MacArthur! We are fed up with the political mumbo-jumbo out of Washington. We are relieved and encouraged to find someone who has a policy, even if we don't agree with it.

What Americans Want
I think most Americans want something substantial they can grab hold of—something to believe in, an ideology, a creed, a way of life. Something with more substance than a 50-cent "dollar bill." There was a time when the church gave a meaning of life to people. Apparently this isn't fashionable any more. Our neglect of the spiritual has brought about a great cultural lag in western civilization.

What was it that satisfied so successfully the wants of our forefathers? Certainly, it wasn't fast automobiles, television, the 40-hour week or a soft life. I believe the happiness and success of our ancestors in this country was the result of their spiritual and courageous approach to problems. The roots of our vitality are not economic. They go deep into the ethical and spiritual soil. Today the trouble is that a startling lack of religion has crept into our national economic thinking. Ask the average person what has made America great and he will probably reply, "Our vast resources and our unparalleled production system." People who think this way have the cart before the horse.

Spiritual Rejuvenation
I am not a social scientist. Anthropologists tell me, however, that in order for any society, primitive or highly civilized, to hang together, it must have a courageous but simple rational creed, a set of spiritual values with strong emotional appeal which gives meaning to life. This, I believe, is what we have lacked in the western world since the disillusionment of World War I. This is what most Americans today long for—a vital, creative, forward-looking creed. We would like more brave leaders to help implement our beliefs for us. Many Americans do not like MacArthur's methods; but his forthrightness appeals to everyone.

Perhaps it is a defect that too many of us voters are waiting for someone else to come up with a real creed. This isn't the way our forefathers operated. They thought their policies out for themselves. I think more of our political, labor and business leaders need to take time to think, pray, meditate, and see if they can't rediscover life's essentials.

A Practical Suggestion
Did you ever stop to think what might happen if your neighbor-

Seniors Of Rapid River On Weekend Trip To Chicago

RAPID RIVER—That long awaited Senior Skip Day finally arrived last Friday, April 28, for the graduating class of the Rapid River Rural Agricultural school. The bus load of students left Rapid River at 6 a. m. Friday and arrived in Milwaukee in time to see the MacArthur parade. Beside the thrill of seeing MacArthur, several students had the additional thrill of seeing movie actress, Joan Blondell, who stood only a couple of feet away from the group.

Friday night was spent in Milwaukee and Saturday morning the bus load of students left for Chicago where they stayed Saturday night and Sunday.

Saturday they lunched and shopped at Marshall Fields and later visited the Brookfield Zoo. Saturday night they saw a stage show at the Oriental Theatre, starring John Agar and Thelma Carson. Sunday was a big day at the baseball game where they saw the Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals play. After the baseball game the group boarded the bus and returned to Milwaukee to spend the night.

Sunday night in Milwaukee they took in Harry James' famous orchestra, which was playing at the Eagle's Lodge, where the dancers all stopped to watch Bonnie Potvin and Dale Gibson dance.

The students on the weekend trip were Billy Cassidy, Louis Bjurman, Pat Burch, Nancy Grandchamp, Betty Gustafson, Alice Kellerson, Victor Majestic, Lloyd Brandstrom, LaVern Karvisti, Janet Huff, Bonnie Potvin, Wilbur Ohman, Joan Anderson, Dale Dale Gibson, Dick Vietzke, Gerald Wils, Helen Wolf, Anne Mohart, Elizabeth Larson, Denny Thomas, Maurice Lancour, and Pat Lund. The group was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Norman Slough and Robert Olsen.

Bigger Marine Corps Advocated In Senate Committee Report

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A permanent increase in fighting strength of the Marine Corps was recommended to the Senate by its armed services committee.

The group approved a force of not less than four full-strength combat divisions and four air support wings plus necessary supporting forces. A ceiling of 400,000 was placed in the bill—about twice the present strength.

At the same time the committee recommended that the marines commandant be given added authority in the joint chiefs of staff, now limited to army, air force and navy leaders plus a chairman.

The commandant would be "a consultant" on the JCS with the right to speak for the corps on marine matters.

First Friday All Night Vigil At Hospital Chapel

The eighth First Friday all night adoration vigil will be observed at St. Francis hospital chapel beginning at 6 this evening and closing with the high mass at 6 Saturday morning. The mass is offered for the intentions of those who attend the vigil.

Children of St. Patrick's choir will furnish the music during the 7 o'clock hour and all other children are invited to participate.

It is suggested that those who find the quiet of the chapel more suited to individual prayer and meditation plan their visit for the hours after midnight. Music, organ and solo hymns, are interspersed between the mysteries of the Rosary until midnight.

Merit for intentions also may be gained by the sacrifice late attendance entails.

Efficient Parent Is One Who Is Useful To Child

By MURIEL LAWRENCE I know a little boy named Mike. He is a four-year-old, red-headed, mischievous, happy and lovable little boy.

When he goes visiting with his father, his father sets aside the last 15 minutes of the visit for Mike to organize himself. He does not help Mike put on his rubbers and overcoat. He lets him fumble. He lets him struggle with the wrong button until he locates the right one.

But all the time, Mike's father is attending to Mike. And as I have watched Mike and his father grin at each other over the finished achievement, in understanding built of odd quarter-hours like this, I have thought: "What a well weeded little garden of a child you are. How fine is the quality of time you are given."

Mike's father is a busy executive. He is never at home for a pre-bedtime hour. If you suggested he set up a "working and playing together" schedule with Mike, he'd think you had lost your mind. Maybe two people could like each other better than Mike and his father. If so, I haven't met them.

Pre-bedtime hours and those "working and playing together" programs are fine if we can manage them. If we can't, we can take excellent advantage of the quarter and half-hours we are able to spare.

Mike's father doesn't talk about the "pressures" of his life. Once when I asked him how to have what he has with his child, he said: "When Mike was born, I decided I was going to be an efficient father. I looked up the meaning of the word 'efficiency' in the dictionary. I discovered it had nothing to do with time, crowded or empty, slow or fast. It just means 'to be useful.' So I quit worrying about the amount of time I could give Mike and concentrated on watching for the odd chances to be useful to him."

Mike's father is a sensitive as well as efficient father. He knows that a small person may be deeply grateful for 10 minutes given up to him while he struggles with a shoelace or the choice of a dessert from a restaurant menu.

He knows that a half-hour can be of priceless value to a small person who needs comfort and counsel when the boy next door has said, "Scram. We don't want any little kids in this game."

If we are resentful of pressures that seem to deprive us of time with our youngsters, it's the resentment that's our problem, not the pressures. The resentment is what accounts for our failure to make good use of what time we can give.

We can learn more about Johnny while we teach him to brush his teeth properly than we can learn in a month's vacation spent in moaning about the pressures we have to return to.

Crime Report Leaked Early

Official Release Not So Exciting

By MARQUIS CHILDS
WASHINGTON—So much of the Kefauver crime report was leaked out in one way or another in the days preceding its official release that its contents come as something of an anticlimax. The act of the innumerable leaks is, incidentally, a sad commentary on a committee created to expose the moral delinquency that enables organized crime to exist in community after community throughout the nation.

The criminal conspiracy revealed by the committee is a cancer that threatens the body politic. They make it the basis for competitive revelations—a means of building up somebody's political Hooper rating—is to put it on a vaudeville level where we can take it or leave it as just another form of entertainment.

Legislation Possible
The same thing applies, let it be said here, to the Communist conspiracy. Either it is a thing of deadly seriousness menacing our whole way of life, or it is just another sensation for the television cameras with some bird-brain from Hollywood confessing that at some point he or she was a member of the Communist party.

The moral indignation generated by the crime hearings should now make it possible to bring about adoption of legislation, most of which has long been recommended. This applies particularly in several fields of federal law.

Tax laws enforced by the Bureau of Internal Revenue can be strengthened so that gangsters and racketeers cannot with the aid of unscrupulous lawyers find ways to evade taxes on their huge incomes. The report points out that the treasury has already moved to tighten regulations to stop some of the raw stuff that the hearings revealed.

Long an urgent need, as the report shows, is increased personnel to enforce both tax and narcotic laws. The Bureau of Internal Revenue as of a year ago had a total of 3,416 suspected tax and cases either under or scheduled for investigation with a total backlog of 9,110 cases. Many of the pending cases involve gangsters and racketeers.

Need Larger Staff
The bureau's staff is inadequate both in size and skills to meet this problem. False economy beginning in the 80th Congress reduced the bureau's personnel at the very time when it was obvious that in the wake of the scandals war always brings there would be need for far greater investigation and prosecution than ever before.

An effective agent more than pays his own way in ferreting out tax chislers. As the Kefauver report says, there should be a larger staff and the salary scale should be increased so that agents with greater skill and training can be hired to run down the artful dodgers and their lawyers.

Similarly, immigration laws can be tightened to facilitate deportation of criminal aliens who originally got into this country through fraud and deception. Changes have been recommended by the commissioner of immigration and are now pending before the Senate judiciary committee.

Need Attendants At VA Hospital

Fort Custer Man Seeks Help In U. P.

Arnold Purkis, personnel representative for Fort Custer Veterans Administration hospital, will visit nine cities in northern Michigan seeking qualified applicants for the position of attendant, Dr. E. S. Post, manager of the VA hospital, announced today.

The month-long recruiting campaign will start in Port Huron on May 7th and end on June 6th in Escanaba. Mr. Purkis will also visit Cheboygan, St. Ignace, Sault Ste. Marie, Hancock, Ironwood, Iron River and Iron Mountain.

Need 100 Men

Dr. Post said there was an urgent and critical need for a hundred men between the ages of 18 and 62 to fill position vacancies at the 2,000-bed neuropsychiatric hospital.

"I urge all interested and qualified applicants to contact Mr. Purkis when he visits their communities," Dr. Post declared, "for we must have these men to continue to give medical service second to none to the disabled veterans of World War I and II."

Starting salary for attendants is $2,450.00 a year plus overtime pay, which amounts to about $47.00 for a 40-hour week and about $60.00 for a 48-hour week.

Permanent Work

The job of attendant for mentally ill veterans is a year around position with living accommodations and board available for single men.

Applicants must be able to read and write. No experience is necessary. Preference for the positions is given to veterans, although non-veterans may apply.

Mr. Purkis will make his headquarters in the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission Offices when he visits the nine cities. Following is Mr. Purkis' itinerary:

Port Huron, May 7, 8 and 9
Cheboygan, May 10 and 11
St. Ignace, May 14 and 15
Sault Ste. Marie, May 16, 17 and 18
Hancock, May 21, 22 and 23
Ironwood, May 24 and 25
Iron River, May 28, 29 and 30
Iron Mountain, May 31 and June 1
Escanaba, June 4, 5 and 6

north of the Haymeadow. Mr. and Mrs. Stan Lenic and Janet and Jimmy Lenic visited with them there on Saturday evening.

About 120 Visit State Hospital

NEWBERRY, Mich. — About 120 persons visited Newberry State Hospital during the institution's "open house", and were conducted through the wards and various departments by hospital personnel.

Of greatest interest to the visitors was the recreation center where a dance for patients was in progress. At the conclusion of the tour, refreshments were served in the new Service Building, with Mrs. A. J. Nault and Mrs. W. R. Purmort presiding at the tea tables. Mrs. Ethel Burns, superintendent of nurses, was general chairman.

The 120 visitors represented sixteen communities in eight Upper Peninsula counties, fourteen Lower Peninsula counties, the state of Wisconsin, and the Canadian province of Ontario.

The hospital is open to inspection at all times, Dr. T. W. Thompson, medical superintendent, pointed out. Any organized group wishing to visit may do so by contacting hospital and arranging for tour. Dr. Thompson is especially anxious that persons who visit hear what is being done for patients. If they learn about mental illness and what steps are taken to lighten patients' burdens, they will get much more out of the tour.

Anniversary Is Observed

W. J. Heslips Married 25 Years Ago

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Heslip, 402 South 10th street, celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary on Sunday, April 29. They were married in Escanaba on April 29, 1926. They have four daughters, Mrs. Irving (Betty) DeRoock, Mrs. Tony (Billie) Marmlick, Jr., Mrs. Harland (Pat) Clark and Jackie Lee, at home.

They were delightfully surprised when their three married daughters entertained them at a party on Sunday afternoon at the Irving DeRoock home. Only relatives attended.

A large wedding cake, trimmed with silver, centered the serving table. The honored guests received many nice gifts.

Essay Contest Winners Named

Lael Richards, 18,
Takes First Place

Winners in an essay contest, "Freedom's Open Door," sponsored by the VFW auxiliary, were announced at an assembly in Manistique high school yesterday afternoon.

First place was awarded to Lael Richards, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Richards. Second place winner was Joyce Martinson, 16, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Harold Martinson and third place was awarded to Sonja Willson, 15, of Germfask.

The first place essay will be entered in state competition, it was announced.

Announcement of winners and presentation of prizes was made by R. J. Kline, one of the judges.

Others on the assembly program were Mrs. John Vaughan, chairman of the contest for the auxiliary; Mrs. Earl Malloch, auxiliary president when the contest started last fall; and Merrill Johnson, another of the judges. A third judge, Mrs. James H. Fyvie, was absent from the city yesterday.

Marvin Frederickson, high school speech director, was assembly chairman.

Also on the speaking program was James K. Pollock, dean of the school of political science at the University of Michigan. He was introduced by William J. Cook.

Farm Agent Urges Fly Control Plan

To assure a complete fly control campaign this season, farmers are urged to order their insecticides now, it is pointed out by Clayton D. Reid, county agricultural agent.

In a message issued yesterday to Schoolcraft county farmers Reid said:

"By planning a complete fly control program, farmers can do much to rid their premises of these pests. Plan to spray both cows and barns.

"Clean up all possible fly breeding places and treat other areas of infestation. Manure piles can be treated with one ounce of borax per square foot of surface.

"For the barn, spray with methoxychlor at the rate of three and one-quarter to four pounds of 50 per cent wettable powder per 100 gallons of water. Apply at the rate of one gallon per 1,000 square feet.

"For the cows, spray with methoxychlor at the rate of one pound of 50 per cent wettable powder per 12 gallons of water. Apply one to two quarts per cow at two to three week intervals. If methoxychlor doesn't do the job, it is recommended that pyrethrum spray or repellents be used.

"A garden-type pressure sprayer will do a good job."

Alma Choir Sings To Large Audience Wednesday Evening

A concert of religious and secular music presented Wednesday evening at the Presbyterian church by the Alma College choir thrilled an audience which filled the church auditorium to capacity.

Under the direction of John Merrill, conductor, the mixed choir sang a program comprised principally of religious numbers, but concluded its offering with three secular numbers and four Ne. spirituals. As a final encore the choir sang the Alma College chant.

The group sang at Gladstone high school Wednesday forenoon, and concluded its Upper Peninsula tour with appearances in Sault Ste. Marie and St. Ignace yesterday.

Red Cross Will Have Scrap Drive Here Tomorrow

A drive for scrap metal to raise additional funds for the lagging Red Cross roll call campaign has been announced for tomorrow by Mrs. L. E. Wilson, fund chairman.

All persons in the city have been urged to search their premises for scrap metal for the drive. Trucks will be around tomorrow to collect the metal which will be sold and the funds deposited in the Red Cross roll call account.

"The Red Cross is far short of its goal, and every cent we can raise is desperately needed to meet Red Cross requirements, both at home and abroad," Mrs. Wilson said. "If you have any scrap metal to donate to this worthy cause, we appeal to you to do so."

Germany Needed In Defense Of Europe, Pollock Declares

Germany must be placed on an equal status with Western nations and be permitted to contribute troops to the Western army on the basis of equality before an effective force can be organized to meet threatened Soviet aggression, according to James K. Pollock, dean of the school of political science at the University of Michigan.

Pollock spoke yesterday noon at a meeting of Manistique business and professional men, held at Denny's restaurant. He was introduced by Russell Watson.

Discussing the need for German rearmament in view of the world crisis, the speaker described the creation of the Atlantic Pact and the dilemma faced by western nations when they endeavored to reverse their policy of demilitarization and deNazification of the conquered Reich.

Many Obstacles
Ravished by war and deprived of power by occupation forces, western Germany lay like a military vacuum in the center of Europe, Pollock said.

The French plan was unacceptable to the United States and England, and negotiations had to be started over again, Pollock said.

The French eventually agreed to German forces on a regional basis, but then the Germans themselves rebelled against the plan, declaring that they would not participate in western defense except on a basis of equality.

French objections to Germany placing intact military units in the proposed western army apparently were offset by signing of the Schumann economic agreement, the speaker said. He described the Schumann plan as one of the outstanding contributions to European unity ever devised.

Signing of the Schumann plan, however, created objections in England where political leaders apparently found a trade threat to Britain in the Franco-German economic union, Pollock stated.

Skeptical of Russia
The last obstacle to organizing a western defense bloc, the speaker said, was posed by the United States which objected to a meeting of foreign ministers, proposed by Russia and accepted by England and France. This country, he pointed out, had learned by experience to be exceedingly skeptical of Soviet proposals. The United States did agree, however, to a meeting of deputy foreign ministers. Deputy foreign ministers convened in March and are still vainly trying to adopt an acceptable agenda, he said.

Present delays in getting western defenses organized, he pointed out, are caused primarily by the hope of England and France that somehow Russia can be induced to cooperate in heading off a third world war.

The need for building up western defense is imperative, Pollock said, and further delays are dangerous to survival of the west.

The speaker pointed to the 25 crack motorized divisions Russia has ready if it decides to attack, plus the 150,000 east German police trained and armed for war.

Summer Danger Period
Western forces in Europe will be increased by four American, one French and two British divisions by September, the speaker said, but the danger period is the time before next September.

Although the logistical problems involved by a Russian attack through Germany are being worked out and while General Eisenhower is organizing the western forces, the Soviet menace cannot be successfully met without German participation, the speaker said.

He urged that Germany be given a status of equality with western nations at once and that German soldiers be brought into the western line-up on an equal basis with other forces. Only by doing this, he said, can the Atlantic Pact nations be reasonably sure of thwarting Soviet designs.

The basic moves on Germany rearmament are still to be taken by England, France and the United States, he concluded.

Germany must be placed on an equal status with Western nations and be permitted to contribute troops to the Western army on the basis of equality before an effective force can be organized to meet threatened Soviet aggression, according to James K. Pollock, dean of the school of political science at the University of Michigan.

Pollock spoke yesterday noon at a meeting of Manistique business and professional men, held at Denny's restaurant. He was introduced by Russell Watson.

Discussing the need for German rearmament in view of the world crisis, the speaker described the creation of the Atlantic Pact and the dilemma faced by western nations when they endeavored to reverse their policy of demilitarization and deNazification of the conquered Reich.

Many Obstacles
Ravished by war and deprived of power by occupation forces, western Germany lay like a military vacuum in the center of Europe, Pollock said.

The French plan was unacceptable to the United States and England, and negotiations had to be started over again, Pollock said.

The French eventually agreed to German forces on a regional basis, but then the Germans themselves rebelled against the plan, declaring that they would not participate in western defense except on a basis of equality.

French objections to Germany placing intact military units in the proposed western army apparently were offset by signing of the Schumann economic agreement, the speaker said. He described the Schumann plan as one of the outstanding contributions to European unity ever devised.

Signing of the Schumann plan, however, created objections in England where political leaders apparently found a trade threat to Britain in the Franco-German economic union, Pollock stated.

Skeptical of Russia
The last obstacle to organizing a western defense bloc, the speaker said, was posed by the United States which objected to a meeting of foreign ministers, proposed by Russia and accepted by England and France. This country, he pointed out, had learned by experience to be exceedingly skeptical of Soviet proposals. The United States did agree, however, to a meeting of deputy foreign ministers. Deputy foreign ministers convened in March and are still vainly trying to adopt an acceptable agenda, he said.

Present delays in getting western defenses organized, he pointed out, are caused primarily by the hope of England and France that somehow Russia can be induced to cooperate in heading off a third world war.

C-C To Aid At Boat Blessing

Event To Be Held
Sunday, July 15

The Top O' Lake Michigan Chamber of Commerce is again cooperating in plans for the Blessing of the Boats ceremony to be held at Fayette on Sunday, July 15, it is announced by Joseph Van Arnam, secretary.

Rev. James Schaefer, of Garden is supervising arrangements for the blessing program which last summer attracted several thousand persons from Delta, Schoolcraft and surrounding counties. The Most Reverend Thomas L. Noa, D. D., of Marquette, will officiate at the blessing ceremony.

Manistique's principal contribution to the event will be the Manistique Municipal Band and the handling of publicity.

Boats from a large area along the northern shore of Lake Michigan are expected to gather in Fayette harbor, south of Garden, for the boat blessing program.

Spring League—A mixed spring bowling league is being organized and will bowl from three to six weeks, it is announced by Russell Braut. Bowling is scheduled to start in about two weeks.

Ministerial Association—The Manistique Ministerial association will meet Monday, May 7, at 10 a. m. at the Zion Lutheran church. The annual election of officers will take place at this meeting.

Reception Unit—The 5332nd Reception Unit will hold its regular meeting at 7 p. m. Monday, May 7, at the State Savings Bank conference room. Major Raymond Flaherty, of Escanaba, will conduct the instruction.

Rummage Sale—There will be a rummage sale at the Ford garage Friday and Saturday, May 11 and 12, sponsored by the Women's association of the Presbyterian church. Those wishing to donate are asked to call Mrs. Leslie Bouscher or Mrs. Fred Hahne.

On Display—A section of driftwood taken from a 40-inch white pine log cut about 50 years ago is on display in the Press window. The driftwood, found on the shore of Lake Michigan by Mrs. Robert Giffen, was mentioned in a recent article on old Manistique logging days by W. S. Crowe. The section is believed to have been cut from the original log by a timber thief who substituted his own mark on the log end. The original mark of the Chicago Lumber company is visible on the driftwood. Crowe estimates that the tree from which the log was cut was about 300 years old and was probably 150 feet tall.

Eskymo Trackmen Meet Ishpeming Saturday

Victorious in their "informal" meet last week against Stephenson, the Escanaba high school track team meets Ishpeming in its first "official" meet of the season at the local athletic field Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Not much is known of the comparative strength of the two teams. Ishpeming's only meet this year

Rapid River Trips Cooks By 10 And 4

RAPID RIVER — Behind the neat five-hit pitching of Wilbur Oman, Rapid River high school baseball team chalked up its first win of the season here yesterday, defeating Cooks 10-4.

Oman, who hurled for Perkins in the Bay de Noc league last year, was in fine form, striking out 14 batters. He walked six.

Rapid River got only seven hits off Lund and Kauten of Cooks but made them count. Allan Gro-leau got two for two. Jacques of Cooks got a double and two singles.

Rapid River will play a game Sunday against an undetermined opponent.

Trojans And Eskymos Meet Negaunee Nine

Eskymo Trackmen Meet Ishpeming Saturday

was against Marquette, which the Gravaerets won.

Coaches Steve Baltic and Henry Wylie feel that they have the makings of a strong team but are eager to match them against strong-calibre to see what they will do against stiff competition. Ishpeming may provide the test.

Doc In 4 Events

The Eskymos will rely heavily on the individual efforts of big Dick (Doc) Shomin, who took four firsts in the Stephenson meet last week. Doc will be entered in the two hurdles events, the shot and the broad jump.

Bill Hay and Mert McRae will represent the Eskymos in the dashes. In the quarter mile, Coach Wylie will use Harlan Yelland, Bert Krueger and Jim McCormick. The half mile will see Dave Zerb, John Connelly and Gerald Nichols representing the locals. In the mile, there will be Glen Larsen, Brian Corcoran, Dave Gasman and Cleve Moore.

The Medley relay team will be composed of Krueger, Yelland, Bob Vadnais and Fred Paulsen.

Hay and Francis Barber will be in the shot put event with Shomin while John Prokos will take part in the broad jump, high jump and pole vault.

Ohio State Takes On Purdue Twice

CHICAGO—(AP)—League-leading Ohio State puts its two-game undefeated record on the line today and tomorrow against Purdue (1-1) in the top series of a full Big Ten baseball schedule.

Illinois (3-1) is at Wisconsin (1-2), Minnesota (1-3) at North-western (3-1), Michigan (0-4) at Indiana (2-1) and Iowa (2-2) at Michigan State (0-0) to round out the weekend conference program.

The games mark the halfway mark in the pennant race.

Michigan, co-champion in 1950, seeks its first victory against Indiana after losing two games each to Illinois and Iowa. Three of the Wolverines' setbacks have been by one run margins.

Konstanty Finds Going Rough

(By The Associated Press)

Big Jim Konstanty is running behind his 1950 schedule and the "I told you so" choir is tuning up.

They said around the training camps that Konstanty, the Phils relief ace, couldn't possibly repeat last year's success. So far they're right. Because he failed last night, the St. Louis Cards ride in first place today.

Konstanty already has lost two and won none.

Failure of Eddie Sawyer's pitchers, with the exception of Robin Roberts, has thrust a heavier burden on Konstanty. It seems impossible, but he's working more often than last year when he made 74 appearances.

Last night was his eighth job in 16 Phil games. The only time he rests is when Roberts starts.

Relief Relieved

Earlier, the Braves took liberties with Jim's stuff like the Dodgers did opening day. Then came the eighth inning of last night's game with St. Louis.

Four hits, a walk and an error by Del Ennis accounted for three runs and brought in Milo Candini to relieve the reliever. A fourth run crossed before the side was out. The final count was 8-4 St. Louis.

But Konstanty's troubles are only a part of the Phils' woes. Catcher Andy Seminick was hit behind the left ear by Max Lanier's pitch in the fourth inning. Taken to a hospital, Seminick soon regained consciousness. X-rays will determine how long he'll be out.

Branch Rickey's Pirates continued their sweep through the east by routing the New York Giants three-game win streak, 7-4. After Spider Jorgensen's pinch homer tied the score in the ninth, the Pirates battled around in the 10th, scoring four runs on only two hits. Mel Queen won his first game.

Pafko Homers

Brooklyn solved an old charmer, Herm Wehmeier, who beat them four times last year. With Preacher Roe throwing a six-hitter, the Dodgers shut out the Cincinnati Reds, 8-0.

Andy Pafko's homer with the bases loaded paced Chicago's 9-3 win over the Boston Braves. That opened the door for St. Louis to slip past Boston into first place.

Sam Jethroe with a homer and single drove in all three Boston runs off rookie Bob Schultz.

But the big explosion of the day was in St. Louis where New York Yankees scored 11 in the ninth inning to flatten the Brownies, 17-3. The 11 runs were a new league record for a ninth inning and the 24 total bases in the inning tied a record.

Ties Modern Record

Gil McDougald hit a grand slam homer and a two-run triple in the ninth inning, tying a modern major league record with six runs batted in for one inning.

Allie Reynolds had little trouble going the route in his first start. Chuck Stobbs got the Boston Red Sox their first win of the western swing with the help of Walt Dropo. Dropo came off the bench and he responded with a double and single to knock in four runs of the 6-1 edge over Detroit's Ted Gray.

A heavy week-end of high school baseball is in store for Escanaba fans Saturday and Sunday.

St. Joseph, with a 6-1 victory over Bark River to its credit, plays three games while Escanaba high school plays its first official game.

Saturday Negaunee high school plays the two schools on the local diamond, meeting St. Joseph in the morning at 10 o'clock and meeting the Eskymos at 2 in the afternoon.

Sunday the Trojans have two more games, playing Bark River at 1:30 and Baraga Parochial of Marquette at 3 o'clock.

Start Baddy

Coach Tom St. Germain said he probably would start his ace left-hander, Fred Baddy, tomorrow against Negaunee and would toss a freshman, Don LeGault, and a senior left-hander, Don Paulin, at Bark River and Baraga Sunday.

Jim Ottensman and Wayne Papineau will do the catching. Paulin will be on first, with Papineau relieving him when Paulin is pitching. Bob Sendenore will play second; John Martinac short and Jim Gravelle at third.

The Trojan outfield will have Bill Baker, Pete Kutches and Papineau with "Gus" Maycunich filling in when Papineau is catching or on first base.

Chriske Looks Good

Coach Jim Rouman's Eskymos played a practice game yesterday at Bark River. Jack Chriske, ace right-hander, worked four innings and allowed only one single and struck out six. Bob Paterick, senior southpaw, worked the next two innings and held Bark River without a hit.

Chriske is slated to start against Negaunee with Paterick in reserve. Big Jim Nyquist, who smashed out a home run against Bark River, will catch. Tom Kroll, who can be used for relief pitching, will be on first. Roland McMillie will hold down second, Paul Gundersman short, and JoJo Johnston, who got two for two yesterday, will be at third.

In the outfield, the Eskymos will have Paul Baldwin, Dick Whitney, Charlie Olson and Paul Davidson.

Paper Mill Team Practices Sunday

The Paper Mill softball team will hold a practice session Sunday at 1:30 at Royce park. Any player interested in joining the team may try out Sunday.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

Brooklyn—Johnny Kamber, 138, Millburn, N. J., outpointed Elmer Lakatos, 133, Youngtown, 8.

Portland, Me.—Bob Stecher, Portland, Me., knocked out Hurley Sanders, Newark, 6. (Middleweight).

Philadelphia—Gil Turner, 144, Philadelphia, stopped Jose Diaz, 147, Venezuela.

Vancouver—Frank Almond, 127, Vancouver, outpointed Nick Smith, 127, Los Angeles, 10.

Powers Held To 3 Hits; Vulcan Wins

POWERS—Powers high school baseball team ran into some fine three-hit pitching by Vulcan's Rick Rossi here yesterday and lost its first game of the season by 7-1.

Rossi held Coach Zig Sheski's boys to three singles. Their lone run came in the first inning. After that Rossi was invincible. He struck out 11 and walked only two.

On the other hand, Powers' pitchers were wild. Bob Lawrence who hurled the first four innings, walked eight batters and struck out six. His successor, Ray Wells, walked four and struck out four.

Rossato of Vulcan got the only extra base hit of the game, a triple.

Monday Powers plays at Felch. The rest of their schedule follows: May 10 at Florence; May 13 St. Joseph here; May 14, at Alpha; May 17, Channing here; May 20, at St. Joseph; May 21, at Vulcan; May 25, Felch here and May 28, Florence here.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting—Gil McDougald, Yankees, tied modern major league record by driving in six runs in ninth inning with a grand slam homer and two-run triple.

Pitching—Preacher Roe, Dodgers, shut out Cincinnati with six hits, 8-0.

Trucks Shelled

Boston's Chuck Stobbs gave up only six hits to win his third game without defeat. Johnny Groth and Don Kolloway each drove out a double and a single.

Kolloway's blow, in the fifth, scored Jerry Priddy from first. Ted Gray, who has failed to finish the eighth Stephens was again intentionally passed to fill the bases. Dropo singled this time.

Former Irish Star Named Lion's Coach

DETROIT—(AP)—Earl N. Brown, who was fired at Auburn in a spectacular row after the 1950 football season, was signed as an assistant coach by the Detroit Lions today.

Brown, Michigan-born former star end at Notre Dame, became head coach at Auburn in 1948. Previously Brown had coached at Harvard, Brown, Dartmouth and Canisius.

A native of Benton Harbor, he is married to a sister of Chuck Barnard, former University of Michigan center.

SAWCHUK HONORED

MONTREAL—(AP)—Terry Sawchuk, goalie for the Detroit Red Wings, has been awarded the Calder Memorial trophy for 1950-51, National Hockey league head-quarters said today. Sawchuk first choice of 15 of the 16 hockey writers and broadcasters, receives $1,000 as winner of the trophy.

Duffers Who Know They'll Improve Are Life Of Game

Fourth of a series written and illustrated for NEA Service By JIMMY DEMARET
Three-Time Masters' Winner
Duffers are the professional's fuel for his own activity.

No one can tell me that a pro's biggest pay is the dollars he picks up for teaching. The real pay-off is the grin of the duffer who suddenly hits the pin because he swung exactly as he was told.

As I wrote in the P. G. A.'s Teachers' Guide, the real optimists on the courses are the boys who know their next game will be a better one—even though it isn't, usually.

You can't hold people like that down.

Therein lies the future of golf. Having finished the round, the typical whiffer surveys his score of 105, and says: "If it hadn't been for this-and-that, I'd have done better. Wait till next Saturday!"

"Whereas it takes 18 holes in par or less to keep a good shooter even mildly happy," says a professional I know of duffers in general, "it takes only one good shot in a day to keep a whiffer happy."

Duffers want to improve, but are reasonable about it. It would shake the souls of some of them to step out some fine day and shoot an 80 instead of a 98.

The lower the score, they feel, the greater the fall next time.

They're happy with a par on the seventh.

Along with the don't care duffers comes the army of tomorrow's golfers.

Powers Held To 3 Hits; Vulcan Wins

POWERS—Powers high school baseball team ran into some fine three-hit pitching by Vulcan's Rick Rossi here yesterday and lost its first game of the season by 7-1.

Rossi held Coach Zig Sheski's boys to three singles. Their lone run came in the first inning. After that Rossi was invincible. He struck out 11 and walked only two.

On the other hand, Powers' pitchers were wild. Bob Lawrence who hurled the first four innings, walked eight batters and struck out six. His successor, Ray Wells, walked four and struck out four.

Rossato of Vulcan got the only extra base hit of the game, a triple.

Escanaba Golf Club Opening Stag Tuesday

The Escanaba golf club will open its season next Tuesday afternoon and evening with a handicap stag tournament, Pro Bill Mark said today.

It will be a hidden handicap affair with players choosing their own partners. Dinner will be served at 6:30 and Mark said calls for reservations for dinner will be appreciated.

Regular greens are in good shape and will be in use Saturday and Sunday and there will be plenty of caddies, Mark said.

Formal grand opening dinner dance has been set for Saturday, May 19.

Committees Named

John Root is chairman of the club's sports committee, which also consists of Joseph Poffenberger, Dale Vinette, James Ward, Augie Gagner and Chet Morton.

Members of other committees follow:

Greens—Max Council, A. W. Freeman, C. C. Cass, Harry Hogan, Lester Ness, Dale Vinette and Paul Wohlen.

House—H. W. Needham, W. J. Lavolette, Mrs. K. F. Harrington, Mrs. William Henderson, Edward Berry, H. E. Johnson, Jim Hall and J. H. Fawcett.

Publicity—Joseph Poffenberger, John Root, Francis Boyce, Fred Pollack, Jean Smith and Don Estebo.

Membership—Juel Lee, J. T. Jones and Mrs. M. Jensen.

Entertainment—Mr. and Mrs. Francis Boyce, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. Stack Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Andrew, Mr. and Mrs. James Rouman and Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Fuller.

Hendricks Is President

J. Lee Hendricks is president of the club. A. W. Freeman is vice president and J. W. Watson is secretary-treasurer.

Members of the board of governors include Hendricks, Lavolette, Jones, Poffenberger, Lee, Root, Boyce, Needham and Council.

Quality, Not Numbers Is What Biggie Wants

EAST LANSING—(AP)—Some of the other schools look with awe on the large turnout Michigan State always has for spring football practice.

This seems to rile head Coach Biggie Munn.

"The size of the squad doesn't mean a thing," he insists. "At Michigan State we let any kid who can pass the physical come out for football. Most of that gang will never make the team."

Munn still has manpower enough to work in his practice sessions with first and second string offensive and defensive teams. But statistically he's right that the majority of this spring's candidates won't make the team.

Weed Out Fast

When first call for spring practice was sounded, about 170 candidates showed up. After four weeks the field was whittled down to about 130.

This fall invitations to football practice will be issued to about 70 prospects. Of these, maybe 50 or 55 will actually get into a game. And of the remainder, between 30 and 35 will be awarded letters.

You wonder why those 100 men who will never get into a game submit to the discipline and bodily punishment that's a part of football practice. There are different reasons.

Some are majors in physical education. And although they may specialize in another sport they want to know enough about football to be able to handle a combination coaching job if it comes up.

Others are physical culture devotees. They read those magazines that have the pictures of the men with the rippling muscles on their covers. They figure football will make them into physical marvels.

A few just want to be on the squad even though they know they'll never make the team. It builds up their stock with the coaches and will be something to tell the grandchildren.

And others, who just haven't got it, still hope against hope they'll make it.

Actually, the coaches always have a line on the men who will make up the playing squad. They know their backgrounds and capabilities. And almost never does an unknown or "sleeper" come out of anonymous mob to make the team.

Albion Track Team Wins 14th In Row

ALBION—(AP)—Albion college boasted 14 outdoor track wins in a row today after defeating Bowling Green of Ohio, 72-59.

The Britons relied on second and third place points to win. The Ohio school, led by Will Jorden in the dashes and Lee Pate in the distance runs, copped most of the first places.

We take this means of thanking friends, neighbors and others for kindnesses shown us during a illness and death of our beloved mother, Mrs. MacLachapelle, including Rev. Fr. Stephen Schneider, the B. of T. Auxiliary, and those who donated cars for the funeral.
Signed,
Kassick and MacLachapelle Families.
85-124-1f

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the many friends and neighbors who by their acts of kindness in the death of our beloved daughter and sister, Mildred, helped to lighten our burden of sorrow. Especially do we thank the Rev. J. Ringstad for his comforting words, the pallbearers, those who loaned cars, and the many friends who sent floral offerings. We thank you all.
Mr. and Mrs. Martin Erickson and Family.

Engine House Stalls Razed

Five Units Being Removed By C&NW

Five of the eight stalls of the old section of the Chicago and North Western railway roundhouse here are being razed by the bridge and building crew.

An eight-stall engine house was built in 1869 at a time when locomotives were small, and the iron ore and other freight traffic just beginning to develop.

Twenty-four more stalls were constructed in 1880.

The older stalls were in poor condition, and anyway the space is not needed. Use of heavier-powered diesel and steam engines in recent years has reduced the number of units housed in the roundhouse here.

C. G. Friets, bridge and building supervisor, is in charge of the wrecking project. A new north wall will be installed after the five stalls are removed.

Henry C. Smith Dies In Chicago, Funeral Tuesday

Funeral services were held Tuesday in Chicago for Henry C. Smith, 57, of 4216 West Jackson Blvd., who died in Augustana hospital of a heart ailment.

Mr. Smith, who lived in Escanaba at one time, is survived by his wife, the former Anna Viaw of this city, and six children.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Rogers of 537 North 20th street, brother-in-law and sister of Mrs. Smith, attended the rites.

Child, 4, Struck By Stone On Left Eye

Marilyn Hanson, four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hanson, 214 S. Eighth street, sustained an injury to her left eye last evening when she was struck by a stone while playing in the neighborhood.

The stone hit the child just above the left eye, necessitating six stitches. She was taken to St. Francis hospital.

Miles Of New Pennies Turned Out Daily To Meet Bank Demands

DENVER—(AP)—Twenty-one miles of new pennies are turned out now every day at the U. S. mint here. That's how long the line would be if they were plunked down side by side, end to end or top to bottom.

The heavy mileage is due to a nationwide shortage of one-cent pieces, according to Moses E. Smith, superintendent of the Denver mint.

He estimated today that $90,000 worth of pennies go into gum machines, baby banks and other similar channels each week. And that's five days of production for the local money factory at the current daily average output of 1,800,000 pennies.

Lost Jewelry Found Under Kitchen Rug

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(AP)—Mrs. Beulah Ripley reported to police that rings she valued at $3,000 had been stolen from her home.

Then she turned sadly to her housework.

Noticing a lump beneath the kitchen carpet, she took a hammer and tried to pound it flat. She kept missing her target, and in disgust took a look. There were her rings.

"It's lucky I'm not very good with a hammer," she commented.

Briggs Cancels Scrap Contract

Link With Gangster Influence Erased

DETROIT—(AP)—The scrap metal contract which brought rebuke from the Kefauver Senate committee to the Briggs Manufacturing company was out the window today.

"In order to avoid further controversy," Briggs quit the scrap sales in question on the heels of the Senate crime probers' reprimand.

Three days ago the Kefauver committee said in its official findings that the contract was made in exchange for "gandemonium influence" in Briggs labor problems.

Briggs had denied any ill intent in making the contract.

The contract, which paid up to a reputed $100,000 a year, was held by Carl Renda, son-in-law of Santo (Sam) Perrone, ex-bootlegger described before the committee as associated with racketeers.

Renda has no police record. However, the Kefauver committee said the contract's "real purpose" was to "have Perrone exert his and gandemonium influence in the Briggs Manufacturing company labor problem."

Briggs' announcement it was quitting sales to Renda was made by the company president, W. Dean Robinson, who himself had been rebuked by the Senate group.

General Gives Views On Quick Ending Of War

Kremlin.

"I mean all over the world," MacArthur said, "including the interior of many of the fine democratic countries of the world."

In his row with the administration, MacArthur has argued that Communism must be opposed in Asia just as strongly as anywhere else. The administration position is that the most vital point of all is to keep western Europe, with its industrial resources, out of Red hands.

Soon after MacArthur settled in the witness chair for his second day of testimony, Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) protested there had been too much censorship of MacArthur's testimony yesterday dealing with restrictions on American air operations in the Korean war.

Knowland said defense and state department "combers" had deleted portions of yesterday's record he believed should have been made public.

With 55,000 words of Thursday questions and answers behind him, MacArthur was ready to parry or meet bluntly again probing inquiries into the policy differences which led President Truman to relieve him as Pacific commander.

As a dramatic parting shot, MacArthur left with senators to mull over night an assertion that the United States would be inviting — rather than avoiding — a third world war if it lets the fighting go on indefinitely in Korea.

Earlier in his day-long testimony MacArthur had made these major points:

1. There are three possible courses to follow in Korea: "Either to pursue it to victory; to surrender to the enemy and end it on his terms; or, what I think is the worst of all choices—to go on infinitely and indefinitely, neither to win or lose, in that stalemate."
2. If the other United Nations are unwilling to go along in direct attacks at Red China, "then we had better x x x go it alone."
3. Mr. Truman "jeopardized" the nation's security in his summary dismissal of the general. MacArthur said however, there was no question that the president had the right to fire him.
4. The joint chiefs of staff prepared a study last January containing the same Korean war plans which he advocated, and which led to his dismissal. The general said he "assumes" Mr. Truman or Secretary of Defense Marshall vetoed them.
5. Far from abandoning Europe, "I advocate that we defend every place, and I say that we have the capacity to do it."
6. "The greatest political mistake" this country made in 100 years in the Pacific was "allowing the Communists to grow in power in China."

Urging some more positive course in the Korean war, which, he said already has destroyed a nation of 20,000,000 people, MacArthur declared:

"If you go on indefinitely, you are perpetuating a slaughter such as I have never heard of in the history of mankind."

Under questioning by Senator McMahon, MacArthur said the reason air operations have not been able to stop Chinese Red reinforcements in Korea is that U. N. planes "don't have the latitude of operation to hit deeper than the Yalu."

"You understand the Yalu is only two or three days' march from the front line," he said. "It gives the air a very limited opportunity, especially when you would have a couple of days of obscure weather where the air couldn't hit, you could get troops down from the Yalu to the front line without being subjected to any air attack."

"But if the air could go where they are assembling—could go to the foundation roots where these armies are being assembled to be thrown at us—they could destroy them."

"At least they could so decimate them that their efficacy when they reached the front lines would be most materially decreased."

Briefly Told

Mrs. Dan Beachamp, 409 South 13th street, Mrs. Victor Thorin, 915 Third avenue south and Mrs. Neil Hytinen of Trenary returned last night from Land of Lakes, Wis. They attended a sales conference.

Spinal Fracture—Mrs. Wesley Anderson, 1301 First avenue north suffered a serious fracture of the spine in an unusual accident while doing her housecleaning Tuesday. She was trying to lift a window to wash the outside when she felt an intense pain. The doctor's examination revealed a fracture of the eleventh dorsal vertebra. She will have to wear a back brace for about a year.

Gets Ticket—Robert Beaudry, 318 South Seventh street, was ticketed today by police for failure to have his car under control and fined two dollars and costs by Justice of the Peace Henry E. Ranguette. Beaudry drove into the rear of an automobile driven by Gerald Jensen, 1010 Eighth avenue south, on Stephenson avenue last night.

Price Chief Doesn't Think There'll Be Meat Famine In Fall

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Price Director Michael V. DiSalle says he doesn't think a meat famine will result from the newly announced beef pricing orders and that there is no present prospect of rationing.

He made the comment to newsmen in response to predictions by some Senators, including chairman Ellender (D-La.) of the Senate agriculture committee, that black markets and rationing are inevitable unless the order is revoked.

President Truman told his news conference yesterday he personally approved the orders. Disalle urged they be given "a fair trial."

The order calls for progressive reductions in the amount slaughtered may pay for live cattle. It also provides for retail cutbacks of about nine cents a pound by Oct. 1.

Bill Passed To Curb Commercial Fishing At Drummond Island

LANSING—(AP)—A bill restricting commercial fishing around Drummond Island passed the House last night.

Speaker Victor A. Knox (R-Sault Ste. Marie) in a rare speech from the floor called the measure "in the interests of good conservation." It is designed to preserve sports fishing around the island.

As it went to the Senate, the measure forbids commercial fishing in the bays on the south edge of the island and in a triangle on the north side from Poe Point, to the international boundary, to Chippewa Point.

he thinks the help should have taken.

The administration position has been that about $2,000,000,000 worth of postwar aid was furnished to Chiang Kai shek, without counting sales of surplus U. S. war goods at marked-down prices.

But—as the Truman administration has made clear—this country's policy was designed to produce a peaceful settlement in China. It was not designed to encourage Chiang to try to overcome the Communists by force of arms.

MacArthur declared that the administration's 1945-46 policy of seeking a merger of the Chinese Communists and Nationalists never had a chance. He put it this way.

"There was just about as much chance of getting them together as that oil and water will mix."

MacArthur said that he need not dwell on Osgood's qualifications, because they were self evident. Osgood joined the department as a geologist and was advanced to state geologist before assuming his present position.

For many years he worked closely with the late conservation director P. J. Hoffmaster in the same office as commission secretary.

Osgood is well known in the legislature, having served many years as unofficial liaison man between the commission and the legislature.

"I have spoken to a few members of the legislature and others about the capitol," Cooper wrote. He added that they had "all received the name of Mr. Osgood with a great deal of enthusiasm."

The commission, with two of its members serving past the April 1 expiration of their terms, have delayed the appointment.

Conservation Chief Sought In Lansing

LANSING—(AP)—A legislator was trying to start a boom today for the appointment of Wayland "Slim" Osgood, veteran conservation commission secretary, as conservation director.

Rep. Clyde Cooper (R-White Cloud) wrote letters to the seven conservation commissioners saying he had learned Osgood would accept the appointment.

Osgood Boomed For State Job

Conservation Chief Sought In Lansing

LANSING—(AP)—A legislator was trying to start a boom today for the appointment of Wayland "Slim" Osgood, veteran conservation commission secretary, as conservation director.

Rep. Clyde Cooper (R-White Cloud) wrote letters to the seven conservation commissioners saying he had learned Osgood would accept the appointment.

Cooper's letter said that he need not dwell on Osgood's qualifications, because they were self evident. Osgood joined the department as a geologist and was advanced to state geologist before assuming his present position.

For many years he worked closely with the late conservation director P. J. Hoffmaster in the same office as commission secretary.

Casualties Heavy In Frontier Clashes

ISRAELI-SYRIAN Frontier — (AP)—Heavy fire blazed along the Israeli-Syrian Frontier today in sharp battles, with heavy casualties on both sides.

Israeli military spokesmen said Syrian troops and irregulars threw two attacks on Israeli positions near Tel El Muteila on the north shore of the Sea of Galilee near the River Jordan. Both the attacks, almost two miles inside Israeli territory, were repulsed, the Israelis said.

(A Syrian army communique issued in Damascus said the fighting in the Galilee-Jordan Junction area was caused by two attacks launched by the Israelis against Arabs in the demilitarized zone. It said the second of these attacks was made in the presence of United Nations observers.)

The bill reduces employer contributions, mainly for new and small firms, from three to 2.7 per cent of their payrolls.

Labor was happiest at softening of what it has called "severe" disqualification clauses in the present law.

One change allows an employee, temporarily laid off, to obtain compensation without seeking a new job if his employer will certify the layoff is for no more than 30 days.

The other permits an employee, laid off and working on a new job, to retain his work credits with the first employer if he has to quit his second job to return to his first job to retain his seniority rights. Under the present law he loses all work credits by quitting the second job.

Senator Robert A. Haggerty (R-Detroit) praised Bonine, Coleman and Hutchinson and declared "the Senate can be proud of this bill."

Senator Garland B. Lane (D-Flint) said it was a "beautiful job."

Calendar Cleaned

The Senate was so happy it swallowed the 113-page bill without debate.

Whipping through 22 bills to virtually clean its calendar, the Senate passed and sent to the House bills to:

More than double the "service fee" which finance companies may pay auto dealers for car finance business.

Raise the salaries of Workmen's Compensation commissioners $2,500 and the commission secretary $1,500.

Tighten ice cream manufacturing standards to require ice cream weigh 4 1/2 pounds per gallon and to increase butter fat content from eight to 10 per cent.

Limit non-resident commercial fishermen in Lake Erie waters to 10 nets per boat and four boats per owner.

James J. Jorgenson Dies In Marinette

MARINETTE—James J. Jorgenson, 85, a retired railroad worker of Escanaba, died at 10:30 Wednesday night at Marinette General hospital. He had been ill several months, and was the father of Dr. Harvey L. Jorgenson of Marinette.

Private funeral services will be conducted Friday at 3:30 p. m. at the Hansen and Onion funeral home. The Rev. William B. Petherick will officiate. Burial will be made Saturday in Garden of Rest cemetery at Escanaba.

Jorgenson came to Escanaba in 1891 from Copenhagen, Denmark, where he was born February 5, 1866. He worked for the North Western railroad most of his life, and retired about 20 years ago. He was a member of the Methodist church.

Beauty, 17, Becomes Bride Of Farouk

By EDWARD POLLAK

CAIRO, Egypt—(P)—All Egypt will rejoice with colorful parades and pageants on Sunday when King Farouk takes beautiful 17-year-old Narmira Sadek as his bride.

The day—which also marks the 15th anniversary of Farouk's accession to the throne—will be heralded by the thunder of cannon and an unprecedented air show as Egyptian airforce planes roar over Cairo in salute to the 31-year-old monarch.

People from all over Egypt will flock to Cairo for the occasion. The government has ordered a 75 per cent reduction on train fares.

Tens of thousands of poor will receive free meals, clothing and small sums of money.

At night Cairo will glitter like a huge diamond. From the minarets of the city's several hundred mosques and from modern buildings along the streets garlands of multi-colored electric bulbs will shine.

Parliament and the government buildings will be illuminated with neon light tubes reproducing artistic designs. The central motif will be a reproduction of the royal crown of Egypt. A torch parade will march down the streets and squares. Officers and men representing all branches of the Egyptian armed forces will stage it.

High above the city in the rocket-lit sky, planes will write in letters of fire the motto: "God, King and Homeland."

Israeli-Syrian Battle Rages

Casualties Heavy In Frontier Clashes

ISRAELI-SYRIAN Frontier — (AP)—Heavy fire blazed along the Israeli-Syrian Frontier today in sharp battles, with heavy casualties on both sides.

Israeli military spokesmen said Syrian troops and irregulars threw two attacks on Israeli positions near Tel El Muteila on the north shore of the Sea of Galilee near the River Jordan. Both the attacks, almost two miles inside Israeli territory, were repulsed, the Israelis said.

(A Syrian army communique issued in Damascus said the fighting in the Galilee-Jordan Junction area was caused by two attacks launched by the Israelis against Arabs in the demilitarized zone. It said the second of these attacks was made in the presence of United Nations observers.)

The bill reduces employer contributions, mainly for new and small firms, from three to 2.7 per cent of their payrolls.

Labor was happiest at softening of what it has called "severe" disqualification clauses in the present law.

One change allows an employee, temporarily laid off, to obtain compensation without seeking a new job if his employer will certify the layoff is for no more than 30 days.

The other permits an employee, laid off and working on a new job, to retain his work credits with the first employer if he has to quit his second job to return to his first job to retain his seniority rights. Under the present law he loses all work credits by quitting the second job.

Senator Robert A. Haggerty (R-Detroit) praised Bonine, Coleman and Hutchinson and declared "the Senate can be proud of this bill."

Senator Garland B. Lane (D-Flint) said it was a "beautiful job."

Calendar Cleaned

The Senate was so happy it swallowed the 113-page bill without debate.

Whipping through 22 bills to virtually clean its calendar, the Senate passed and sent to the House bills to:

More than double the "service fee" which finance companies may pay auto dealers for car finance business.

Raise the salaries of Workmen's Compensation commissioners $2,500 and the commission secretary $1,500.

Tighten ice cream manufacturing standards to require ice cream weigh 4 1/2 pounds per gallon and to increase butter fat content from eight to 10 per cent.

Limit non-resident commercial fishermen in Lake Erie waters to 10 nets per boat and four boats per owner.

James J. Jorgenson Dies In Marinette

MARINETTE—James J. Jorgenson, 85, a retired railroad worker of Escanaba, died at 10:30 Wednesday night at Marinette General hospital. He had been ill several months, and was the father of Dr. Harvey L. Jorgenson of Marinette.

Private funeral services will be conducted Friday at 3:30 p. m. at the Hansen and Onion funeral home. The Rev. William B. Petherick will officiate. Burial will be made Saturday in Garden of Rest cemetery at Escanaba.

Jorgenson came to Escanaba in 1891 from Copenhagen, Denmark, where he was born February 5, 1866. He worked for the North Western railroad most of his life, and retired about 20 years ago. He was a member of the Methodist church.

Besides his son, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Elsie Jorgenson of Copenhagen, and two grandchildren.

Egypt Rejoices As King Weds

Beauty, 17, Becomes Bride Of Farouk

By EDWARD POLLAK

CAIRO, Egypt—(P)—All Egypt will rejoice with colorful parades and pageants on Sunday when King Farouk takes beautiful 17-year-old Narmira Sadek as his bride.

The day—which also marks the 15th anniversary of Farouk's accession to the throne—will be heralded by the thunder of cannon and an unprecedented air show as Egyptian airforce planes roar over Cairo in salute to the 31-year-old monarch.

People from all over Egypt will flock to Cairo for the occasion. The government has ordered a 75 per cent reduction on train fares.

Tens of thousands of poor will receive free meals, clothing and small sums of money.

At night Cairo will glitter like a huge diamond. From the minarets of the city's several hundred mosques and from modern buildings along the streets garlands of multi-colored electric bulbs will shine.

Parliament and the government buildings will be illuminated with neon light tubes reproducing artistic designs. The central motif will be a reproduction of the royal crown of Egypt. A torch parade will march down the streets and squares. Officers and men representing all branches of the Egyptian armed forces will stage it.

High above the city in the rocket-lit sky, planes will write in letters of fire the motto: "God, King and Homeland."

Rita Hayworth Takes Home Close To Reno

RENO—(AP)—After a royal tour of world capitals, Rita Hayworth is seeking the seclusion of a quiet little home in the hills overlooking Lake Tahoe and conveniently close to Reno, the divorce capital.

But her attorney, William Woodburn, Jr., said he would not like to say definitely that she plans to divorce Prince Aly Khan.

"She is coming here to establish Nevada residence," Woodburn said blandly.

Rita rented quarters in which even a princess could subsist in exclusive Glenbrook, Nev. She has two governesses for her two children, a butler, two maids and a cook.
